Rhinoceros Horn, Elk Tooth.

Russia Trades and Reads.

Prayer for Better Times.

Who Understands Money?

—BY ARTHUR BRISBANE—

WE READ with suitable disdain that it is necessary to stop the killing of rhinoceroses. Without protection they would soon become extinct. Natives hunt them for the horns, to which they attribute "powerful magic."

We say to ourselves:

"How silly to kill such gigantic animals merely to get magic horns, when there is no magic."

Then we remember that tens of thousands of beautiful elk have been slaughtered by men that simply wanted to get their teeth, the animal being left to rot on the ground.

Not all the savages are in Africa.

RUSSIA REALIZING that commerce is something more than a "mere capitalistic invention for the enrichment of the few," allows peasants to sell grain and meat. Markets are organized and Russia is pleased. There is not much pleasure in having rubles if you can't spend them, or in raising pigs if you can't sell pork. That may not be perfect "communism" but that is how human beings are made.

This change in Russia's policy would seem to indicate success for Stalin. As men become successful, they become more conservative.

VARIOUS MINDS interpret in various ways the news that comes out of Russia, but there cannot be two opinions about this.

Russia has three times as many newspapers today as she had under the czars, and ten times as many newspaper readers.

"Pravda," published in Moscow, official organ of the Communist party, has a daily circulation of 2,200,000. "Izvestia," another Russian official organ, sells 2,000,000 papers a day.

"The Peasants' Gazette," published every three days, circulates 3,000,000 copies and has, in addition, 15 regional editions, besides its edition of 3,000,000.

There is no free press in Russia, which means that there is no reliable safety valve. But at least the people are reading.

TODAY THE Osservatore Romano in Rome printed the Pope's encyclical asking the world to pray for relief from "today's sad condition of the human race." Summaries of the encyclical were broadcast in various languages. It recommends world prayer, especially in June, a month consecrated to the "Sacred Heart."

WAR AGAINST religion, which is savage in Russia, persistent in Spain and Mexico, continues in the last country. The Governor of Michoacan announces that the number of priests is limited to 33 in the enormous territory over which he rules, and no bishop, archbishop or delegate can officiate religiously.

The new law excludes from active religious service the papal legate, Archbishop Leopoldo Ruiz y Flores, who is from Michoacan, and cannot officiate in his own state.

MR. MILLS, Secretary of the Treasury, and Eugene Meyer, Jr., head of the Federal Reserve Board, agree that it would be a mistake to order the Federal Reserve to keep pouring out money until the dollar's purchasing power comes down to the 1926 level.

The government couldn't restore 1926 prices if it tried, Mr. Mills says. The dollar would be made cheap without necessarily making products more valuable.

Mr. Mills and Mr. Meyer, both able financiers, agree that you can cut down the value of the dollar but you can't put up the value of products.

The public begins to think that nobody really knows anything about money, especially when trouble comes.

AN INDIVIDUAL known as one of the "Norfolk, Va., negotiators," who caused Col. Lindbergh much trouble and anxiety in an attempt to recover his child, has confessed that his story concerning the baby was a hoax, and that he had trumped up a yarn about a "mysterious boat at sea, and various people aboard her."

There may be no law to punish one guilty of such a hoax, but there should be such a law.

MORE INTERESTING and important than the hoax perpetrated by what was, perhaps, a diseased mind, is the fact that in another direction Col. Lindbergh was persuaded to pay $50,000 to an individual whom he never saw, supposed to be located in a graveyard. Whoever got the money kept it, and sent Col. Lindbergh on a wild goose chase that produced no results. That "incident" should be investigated thoroughly.

ADVERTISING IS a great power. Newspapers possess it, but DON'T USE IT. They advertise everything except themselves, and the value of advertising, which is the greatest force for restoration of prosperity.

Z. Robert Clary, of the Glendale News Press, Glendale, Cal., says:

"If newspapers would devote half as much space to advertising themselves as they are now devoting to advertising the depression, they would do well."

A sound suggestion.

IT WAS expected yesterday that the building strike in New York would be settled and that 50,000 men would return to the earning of good wages, amounting to $300,000 a day for the 50,000.

That is good news, for this is hardly a time for prolonged strikes or refusals to arbitrate.

SENATE NEAR SHOWDOWN ON BEER

Defeat of Tydings Plan To Legalize Beverage In Revenue Bill Sure

WASHINGTON, May 18.—(AP.)—The Senate approached a vote on 2.75 per cent beer today with the advocates advancing it as a Federal relief issue, but they faced certain defeat.

Senator Walsh (Dem.), of Massachusetts, carried on the cause at the opening of today's debate for the Tydings amendment to the revenue bill authorizing 2.75 beer as a means of helping finance a $1,500,000,000 public construction bond issue.

The Massachusetts Senator said the recent elections had shown sentiment changing "rapidly" on prohibition. He added:

"This amendment offers an opportunity for those who believe the time has come for modification of the Volstead act to register their position."

He emphasized also that the Treasury would receive a large sum of money from a source "that has been recognized as less burdensome" than other taxes proposed.

The prohibitionists, confident of their strength, left practically all the talking to the beer advocates.

Only a handful of the anti-prohibitionists listened to the debate which dragged slowly.

Senator Broussard (Dem.), of Louisiana, challenged a statement last night by Senator Sheppard (Dem.), of Texas, co-author of the Eighteenth Amendment, that Senators who voted for the Tydings amendment would be violating their oaths to support the Constitution. Broussard said:

"The amendment is not in violation of the Eighteenth Amendment, but in direct accord with it."

POPE WARNS WORLD OF ANARCHY

Orders 8 Days of Prayer, Bans Frivolity to Combat Effects of Economic Ills

By GUGLIELMO EMANUEL
International News Service.

VATICAN CITY, May 18.—Blaming "exaggerated nationalism" and social orders such as Communism for the world's economic ills, Pope Pius XI today addressed an encyclical to the world calling for united opposition to these "causes."

The Pontiff ordered eight days of special prayers in Catholic churches of the world, beginning May 26, and recommended abstentation from amusements during the period as a measure of atonement. Pope Pius said in the encyclical:

"Inspired by Christ's charity, I addressed an appeal to the world on October 2, 1931, to help alleviate the terrible effects of the world economic crisis.

SUFFERINGS INCREASE

"Though the response was generous, sufferings have increased and unemployment has grown, thus supplying a pretext for subversive parties to launch propaganda for a drive threatening public order everywhere and increasing the danger of terrorism and anarchy.

"This induces me to appeal to the world to oppose with its whole strength the ills endangering humanity—worse still, threatening it.

"Never before has the world, both spiritually and materially, been so restless as it is now. The whole of humanity is being crippled by a financial and economic crisis which is leaving no nation, no society and no fam-

Fast Thinking by Lindy Helped to Trap Faker

Statement of John Hughes Curtis 708 Hedgate Avenue, Norfolk, Va.

Made by my own hand and own free will.

Referring to the two statements made previously by me in regards to the Lindbergh Case.

At the present time I am sane, but I honestly believe that for the last seven or eight months I have not been myself, due to financial troubles.

I was apparently brought back to my senses by my telephone conversation with my wife this afternoon when she told me of the troubles she was having and how the children missed me, also by my conversation with Inspector Harry W. Walsh.

I desire to state that my remarks about the newspapers are true and can be verified, this is in reference to my story about Mr Hauptmann and Mr. Willcox of the Herald Tribune, Mr. Lee of the News and Mr. Turin and Fox, offering me money of my knowledge of the Lindbergh Case or pictures of the baby.

The matter was brought to my attention during a conversation and due to what I now believe was a distorted mind by brooding over it, I became insane on the subject for the time being, which caused me to create the story in its entirety., which were untrue in every respect.

I never knew such people that I named to Colonel Lindbergh and they were creatures of a distorted mind, with the exception of Morris Truesdale, who had no connection with the crime.

I exceedingly regret that I caused Colonel Lindbergh and others any inconvenience and wish it were in my power to correct my wrong.

In justice to my wife and two children I trust that it is in the power of Colonel Lindbergh to forgive the inconvenience, worry and injustice I did him in his time of grief.

This statement has been brought about by the realization of the wrong I have done.

THE SELF-TYPED, SIGNED CONFESSION OF JOHN H. CURTIS . . . . WAS WRITTEN AT 4 A. M.

FAKER'S WHEREABOUTS ON NIGHT BABY WAS ABDUCTED PROBED

HOPEWELL, N. J., May 18.—(AP.)—A fantastic picture of the activities of John Hughes Curtis, bankrupt Norfolk shipbuilder, in his incredible Lindbergh baby hoax, was painted today as details of his recent movements came to light from many sources.

While New Jersey police guarded Curtis for fear that he would commit suicide in remorse for his actions, Inspector Harold R. King, of the Nassau (N. Y.) County police, declared than an hour before the shipbuilder confessed he was confronted in Hopewell with a Long Island bootlegger, who charged him with having double-crossed him in a deal involving a large sum of money.

At the same time Chief of Police S. W. Ironmonger, of Norfolk, Va., said he did not believe Curtis had made a complete confession and that he was withholding "something important." The police official, however, gave no indication of what he had in mind.

Earlier it had been revealed that Norfolk police were checking on the movements of Curtis the night the Lindbergh baby was kidnaped and had gathered mud scrapings from his automobile to determine if it could be identified with New Jersey soil. Mrs. Curtis said her husband was at home that night.

On the heels of this came a statement from Maj. Charles Schoeffel, assistant superintendent of New Jersey state police, that "we had information from a confidential source in Norfolk that this man became involved in financial difficulties and attempted suicide, and, after receiving that information, for his own protection we placed a guard over him 24 hours a day."

ALL POLICE WORK NOW CO-ORDINATED

Gov. A. Harry Moore, of New Jersey, announced today that "all police work, state and federal, is now co-ordinated and all forces are swinging along with the same purpose in view."

Gov. Moore said it was probable that Curtis would be arraigned today after a complaint had been sworn out against him by the police. A state charge, if made, the Governor said, would probably be that of making false statements "which in effect means hampering the ends of justice."

There were reports here today, also, that Curtis would be charged by the federal government with hampering the functions of the government, on the strength of his story the Coast Guard patroled the coast.

FIRST REPORTS LINK GREEN SEDAN

The first confidential announcement of the kidnaping of the Lindbergh baby on the night of March 1, sent on the Interstate Police alarm system, said the child had been spirited away in a green automobile. During a recent telephone conversation with the Norfolk Public Safety Commissioner, Curtis described a green car to him and said that discovery of that automobile might prove the key to the whole mystery.

The only car which could be found in Norfolk answering the description was one owned by Curtis himself and found in his ship yard. It is from this car that scrapings have been taken for possible analysis.

Police were today awaiting the arrival of the Rev. H. Dobson Peacock, another of the Norfolk negotiators. In his confession yesterday that his whole story of contacts with the kidnapers was a hoax, Curtis said that Dean Dobson Peacock "could have prevented this trouble." The minister was invited to come here voluntarily but no reply had been received from him this morning.

COUNTY TO FIRE 200 MORE

Approximately 200 more county employes will be dropped June 1. All are involved in the Department of Highways reorganization, which Commissioner Charles C. McGovern announced yesterday must be completed June 1 to balance the budget.

Asked how much the further curtailment will save the county, McGovern said:

"This is a sloughing off process and should further reduce expenditures about $50,000. Insofar as we are able, we will take care of ex-soldiers, people with 15 years or more service in the county and women whose only support is their job. The overloaded payroll of the Department of Public Works, a relic of the county's money spending orgy and had to be cut. This year's expenditures must stay within the income."

Reductions of personnel and salaries were also made in the department of statistics in the Commissioners' office. From 12 employes at $33,624.48 a year, the force was cut to 10 employes at $24,000 a year.

Akron Maneuvers With Airship Tender

SAN FRANCISCO, May 18.—(AP.)—The dirigible Akron made a successful contact with the U. S. S. Patoka, Navy aircraft tender, while the Patoka was under way in San Francisco Bay last night.

The Akron made its contact with the Patoka after circling the northern bay district and dropping flowers over San Rafael, honoring the memory of Capt. Robert Dollar, shipping magnate, who died there Monday. The Akron headed for the San Joaquin Valley on a tour of California.

Bonus Vets Hoax Hoover Guards

WASHINGTON, May 18.—(AP.)—A truck load of peacefully-inclined war veterans, which headed today toward the White House, brought an extra police guard scurrying there after a telephone call had described the men as "demonstrators."

No demonstration materialized.

About 25 in all, the veterans riding in a truck labelled "We Want Our Bonus," parked near the White House, but did nothing more than chat with the police and newspapermen who surrounded them.

The group traveled from Chattanooga, Tenn., as members of Post 1,239 of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. Cheerful, although tired, members of it smilingly said they did not intend to go back to Chattanooga until "we get our bonus money."

The veterans made no effort to see President Hoover, laughingly declaring they would come back later when they had a more regular appointment.

Kidnaped Justice Found Tied, Gagged

SCRANTON, Pa., May 18.—(INS.)—J. Drew Fague, Justice of the Peace at Montoursville, Lycoming County, kidnaped from his home September 17 last, was found alive, but bound and gagged, this morning along the Morgan highway north of this city.

Bandits Bind 11, Get Bank's $25,000

CALDWELL, O., May 18.—(AP.)—Binding four bank officials and seven customers with rope, three holdup men escaped today with $25,000 from the Noble County National Bank here. They looted the cashier's cage, the vault and the pockets of their victims.

WCAE TO STAGE DRY DEBATE

Whether the Eighteenth Amendment should be repealed will be debated by two well-known Pittsburghers over station WCAE next Friday night. The debate will start at 10 p. m., with seven minutes for each speaker.

Mrs. William M. Hall and the Rev. Dr. J. E. Wagner, pastor of the Mt. Lebanon Methodist Episcopal Church, will debate the question: "Resolved: That the Eighteenth Amendment be Repealed."

Dr. Wagner will present the negative or prohibition side in the debate, while Mrs. Hall, well-known Pittsburgher, will uphold the affirmative, or anti-dry side of the question.

The debate itself will last seven minutes for each side, while the rebuttal will take place over Station WCAE Saturday night, beginning at 8:15 o'clock.

Took Norfolk Man to Hopewell When Told Baby Was Dead

HOPEWELL, N. J., May 18.—(AP.)—Friends disclosed, today that quick thinking by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was responsible in part at least for the confession by John Hughes Curtis of the hoax which caused widespread search at sea for the kidnaped baby.

Informed last Thursday night aboard A. L. Foster's yacht Cachalot, anchored at Cold Spring Harbor, N. J. that his baby had been found dead, Lindbergh immediately began packing his bag, remarking:

"Come with me to Hopewell, Mr. Curtis."

An automobile left Cold Spring Harbor at 9 p. m., arriving at Hopewell early Friday morning. Curtis was taken to police headquarters. Then began the ques-

WOMAN, 60, ILL, ENDS LIFE

Ill health and melancholia today were blamed for the suicide of Mrs. Alma L. Hamilton, 60, in her bedroom in the Hollywood apartments, 5708 Forbes street, shortly before last midnight, according to a morgue report, which said Mrs. Hamilton fired a bullet into her head while a son was admitting a couple whom his mother had summoned by telephone.

Dr. Glenn O. Smith told Deputy Coroner Stanley Gurenski that Mrs. Hamilton had suffered pernicious anemia, the deputy said.

Mrs. Hamilton, mother of four grown children, left this note, written with black pencil and signed with a red pencil on the back of an old program of the Carnegie Tech Little Theater:

"I am doing this to save my children from cold and calculating bankers. I revoke all former will and testaments."

Three of the children are daughters. One is reported to be a teacher in Pennsylvania College for Women, another a student at Smith College, a third married and the fourth, a son, a student in the University of Pittsburgh medical school.

Dahlberg, Divorced, Remarried in Month

CHICAGO, May 18.—(AP.)—Bror G. Dahlberg, president of the Celotex Company, returned to Chicago yesterday with a new bride, the former Mrs. Gilda Krieger Lichtle, of Miami Beach, Fla.

Dahlberg was divorced less than a month ago from the former Miss Mary Alexander, of San Saba, Tex., who said she preferred to live in Spain.

THE PROBLEM

THE LATEST available reports of the Emergency Relief Association state more than 30,000 families are getting relief in Allegheny County.

THE REMEDY

A $5,000,000,000 bond issue by the United States to build great public works, employ several million men, start the nation back to prosperity.

Hunt Centers on Jafsie Clues, More Rogue Pictures Scanned

NEW YORK, May 18.—(INS.)—Dr. John F. Condon, "Jafsie," who was the central figure in the payment of a $50,000 ransom to the purported kidnapers of the Lindbergh baby, today was suddenly whisked away from his home in the Bronx by four detectives, two from New Jersey and two from New York, who took him to the detective bureau in Mount Vernon, N. Y., to check pictures in the rogues' gallery.

Previous to the visit of the detectives to his home, "Jafsie" had announced he planned to rest all day.

WHEREABOUTS OF FAKER ON NIGHT OF LINDY KIDNAPING PROBED

The four detectives, from time to time, pointed out pictures for him to inspect.

It was stated that Dr. Condon was combing the photographs in the hope of finding the likeness of one or more of the persons with whom he had negotiated.

With the "negotiations" of John Hughes Curtis, Norfolk shipbuilder, a self-branded Aesop's fable, the hunt for the kidnapers of the slain Lindbergh baby today set along the trail pointed out by Dr. Condon, "Jafsie," who paid out $50,000 ransom to a band which convinced him they had stolen the child.

STORY OF 'CONTACT' SUPPORTED

Support of the authenticity of Condon's "contact" was supplied by Hugh McQuillen, New York head of the Intelligence Bureau of the Department of Internal Revenue.

McQuillen examined the original ransom note left behind by the kidnapers in the nursery of the Lindbergh home at Hopewell, N. J., and compared the handwriting with that in the note received by Condon from the supposed abductors he did business with.

The handwriting in both notes was apparently the same, diagnosed McQuillen.

Condon, preparing for his testimony before the Bronx grand jury Friday in which he will tell about his dealing with "John," the big blond Teutonic representative of the purported kidnapers, today viewed the unmasking of Curtis as an imposter as "clearing the stage" in the investigation into the Lindbergh baby murder.

'KNEW ALL ALONG' CURTIS WAS FAKE

He said that he "knew all along" the Curtis negotiations were fraudulent and he charged that it was Curtis who caused his (Jafsie's) contact with the kidnapers to be broken off. He said:

"I fully expected Curtis to be shown up sooner or later. I have known for many days that he was lying.

"He had given me what was purported to be a picture of the mystery ship on which the kidnapers were supposed to be. I checked that for Col. Lindbergh personally.

"And it was because of Curtis that the kidnapers broke off the negotiations with me."

"Jafsie" displayed an old newspaper clipping which quoted Curtis as saying that Col. Lindbergh had authorized him to pay $100,000 to the kidnapers. He declared:

"That's what broke my contact. I only paid the kidnapers $50,000. They read about $100,000 being available and they thought I was holding out on the other $50,000."

A secret conference in Trenton, N. J., gave promise of new developments.

At the meeting which broke up early today were New Jersey Attorney General William A. Stevens, Joseph Lanigan and Theodore Backus, his assistants; Prosecutor Erwin E. Marshall of Mercer County, and Prosecutor Anthony M. Hauck, Hunterdon County, and Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, superintendent of the New Jersey state police.

What these major officials in charge of tracking down the kidnap-murderers of Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr., discussed at the midnight conference was not divulged.

But the importance of the conference was indicated by two telephone calls made by Stevens to Gov. A. Harry Moore, of New Jersey.

MYSTERY PHONE CALLS

The first led the Governor to leave a dinner of the Ne Exeat Club of John Marshall College in New York with the remark:

"The Attorney General phoned me and asked me to meet him on a matter of very great importance."

Stevens telephoned the Governor, then at some undisclosed place, shortly before the meeting broke up, apparently on a matter of paramount importance in the Lindbergh kidnap hunt.

In an intricate cartograph he showed interviewers, Dr. Condon charted the steps he took in the kidnap negotiations. From a drawn picture in the corner of a chart radiated ink lines captioned cryptically.

The Bronx County grand jury investigation began yesterday with Col. Henry Breckinridge, advisor to Col. Lindbergh, as the main witness. It was in the Bronx Condon paid the ransom.

Gov. Moore announced the New Jersey Legislature would be asked to appropriate a substantial amount as reward for the arrest and conviction of the kidnap-murderers. He said that through Col. Schwarzkopf, Lindbergh assented to his plan.

Federal investigators met with Jersey officials in Trenton and mapped out a co-ordinated campaign in the hunt.

Following Curtis' confession the widespread search by Coast Guards for the supposed kidnap boat he mentioned was ordered abandoned.

It was thought at first that Curtis had conceived his wild tale in an effort to lift himself from bankruptcy into which the failure of the gas engine and boat corporation of which he was president had forced him.

RECEIVED NO MONEY

It has developed, however, that Curtis received no money at all from Col. Lindbergh for his efforts and that he apparently never figured on obtaining any. The general feeling among the police is that financial worry temporarily unbalanced Curtis to such an extent that a vagrant thought that he might gain honor and glory as the man who restored the Lindbergh baby to its home found fertile ground upon which to grow.

The steady stream of questioning shot at Curtis for two days by Col. Schwarzkopf and the astute Inspector Walsh, famed in Jersey as a master of the gentle art of cross-examination, weakened and finally broke down the Norfolk negotiator and today Curtis, according to state troopers, is a bewildered man who acts as though he were coming out of a nightmare.

From the beginning police authorities have questioned the value of the information which Curtis gave to Col. Lindbergh.

PAST LIFE PROBED

As soon as he entered the case, which was on March 10, an investigation unknown to him was made of his past life. At that time Col. Schwarzkopf admitted cautiously that Curtis would be given every co-operation but he added "not for publication" that he had found nothing in Curtis' record that would justify the confidence which Col. Lindbergh was placing in him.

At that time, police as well as Col. Lindbergh's private agents were clutching at straws in their effort to contact the kidnapers and Curtis was given a free hand. It would be impossible to estimate how much his activities cost police and government agencies.

Naval planes were always at his beck and call and destroyers were always in readiness to obey his commands. As he reported progress and gave out optimistic reports the early skepticism as to his motives was replaced by a shocking faith that he really had gotten in touch with the kidnapers.

Col. Lindbergh soon devoted most of his time to running about the country and hurrying out to sea as directed by Curtis. He was at sea with the Norfolk man when the tragic news of the finding of his son's body came to him and a delay in the transmission of that message kept him from his wife's side for several hours after the news was broken to her.

ADDICT'S STORY FALSE

Frank Parrych, dope addict who confessed yesterday that he was one of the baby kidnapers, today said his tale was false.

He was arrested yesterday for wife desertion and volunteered the kidnap story.

He was examined for many hours, during which it developed that he had been drinking heavily and was a user of narcotics.

Today he told Police Commissioner Edward P. Mulrooney that his whole story of being connected with the kidnaper was a hoax.

Fake Money Passer Gets Year Sentence

Anthony Pickio, 33, of Johnstown, was sentenced yesterday by Federal Judge Nelson McVicar to serve a year and a day in a federal penitentiary, after being convicted of possessing and passing counterfeit $5 notes. Joseph Bennicasa, of Johnstown, under indictment for possessing and passing counterfeit notes, testified against Pickio, who he declared, gave him fake bills to purchase whiskey at $1.75 a gallon. Bruno Perfalone, also of Johnstown, testified Pickio had given him a counterfeit note.

Death Chair Inventor, 92, Fights Its Use

NEW YORK, May 18.—(INS)—Celebrating his ninety-second birthday today, Dr. A. D. Jorkswell of Queens, originator of the electric chair in use at Sing Sing Prison, reiterated his opposition to capital punishment.

The death penalty he declared is only a "vengeful futility," a confession of the law's failure in fighting crime.

Seek to Identify Body Boys Found

WASHINGTON, Pa., May 18.—(AP)—Efforts are being made today to identify the body of a man about 50, found by two boys playing along Chartiers Creek near Hills Station. The man, dead about two months, wore several suits of overalls.

TAXI LAWSUIT ECHOES STRIKE

An echo of the taxicab strike was heard in court today in the case of Fred Schinman, salesman of Jamestown, N. Y., against the Yellow Cab Company for loss of his eye, fractured jaw and other injuries suffered when he was struck by a brick hurled through the cab window in front of the Aldine Theater, Liberty avenue, February 12, 1930.

Judge S. H. Gardner ruled out testimony tending to show that Schinman had not been warned by the nonunion driver when he boarded the cab at the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Station to go to the Pennsylvania Station.

Council Must Act To Reinstate Pair

Supplies Director W. R. Dunlap today was advised by Assistant City Solicitor Thomas M. Benner that Council would have to pass an ordinance creating new positions for Bert M. Doty and Miss Mathilda Ganley, discharged employes who won a court fight for reinstatement. After they were dismissed last year their positions were eliminated.

Odor Bombing Laid To 'Scandals' Feud

CHICAGO, May 18.—(INS)—Importation of New York ticket sellers for George White's "Scandals," which opens here Sunday night, was blamed by police today for the explosion of an odor bomb in the Civic Opera House.

Fliers' Congress To Send Lindys Sympathy

ROME, May 18.—(AP)—Charles A. Lindbergh "will be the absent one who will dominate" the congress of trans-Atlantic aviators next week, Italo Balbo, Italy's Minister for Aviation, said.

Signor Balbo expressed deep regret over the inability of Col. Lindbergh to attend. After the kidnaping of the colonel's son, he explained, he ceased urging him to come to Rome.

The ocean fliers of the world will send expressions of their profound sympathy to Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh, the air minister said.

House Group O. K.'s Kidnap Death Bill

WASHINGTON, May 18.—(INS)—The Cochran bill providing the death penalty or life imprisonment for convicted kidnapers, was approved today by the House judiciary subcommittee.

At the same time it tabled the Douglas resolution which would have offered a reward of $100,000 for apprehension of the Lindbergh kidnapers.

ALLIED FORCES FOR DRY LAW MEET HERE

National Campaigners Open Two-Day Convention in City; Poling to Speak

Conceding the right for difference of opinion on the dry question, national campaigners of the Allied Forces for Prohibition opened a two-day campaign here with afternoon and night mass meetings in Memorial Hall as the feature of the drive.

Admitting that both sides of the question possess the natural right to present their facts, the campaigners being based upon the belief that the rising generation and not the present leaders are the voice that should decide, according to Dr. Daniel A. Poling, leader of the party of six campaigners that are completing a coast-to-coast tour of 587 cities on June 5.

POLING TO SPEAK

Dr. Poling expressed his views during a short stop-over at the Fort Pitt Hotel. He speaks this afternoon and tonight at Johnstown, returning for an address here tomorrow night. The other speakers include Col. Raymond Robins, who spoke this afternoon and will also speak tonight; Miss Norma C. Brown, speaking tonight; Robert C. Hopp and Harold Singer, executive secretary, speaking at young people's meetings; Dr. Ira Landrith and W. J. Stewart.

Holding the spiritual adventure of the American people was one of the reasons prohibition arrived, Col. Robins cited as the reason at this afternoon's meeting in Memorial Hall.

"We dared to believed that we could use the power of government for human welfare. The people now know alcohol is a poison. The social risk has been changed. The most potent reason why prohibition came is to be found in the nature and character of the liquor traffic itself. The saloon became the center of organized rotten politics, commercial gambling and organized vice."

Reporting that the campaign has exceeded its 1,000,000 pledge goal, Dr. Poling said that 1,000 units, totaling more than 500,000 youths, have been organized. He viewed the campaign as one of sane reasoning, saying:

"There is a deep-seated difference of opinion. We believe the question can be discussed without going into a rage. Therefore, we are working a drive of psychology."

GIVING FACTS

"In the instance of youth, they are told about the saloons but, not having seen them, it is logical that this evil becomes a fascination to their minds. It is like the fascination from tales of the old western frontier. What we are doing is giving them the facts by which they can judge for themselves."

A luncheon open to all men, will be held tomorrow noon at the William Penn Hotel. A similar luncheon at the same time is scheduled for women at Hotel Schenley. Dr. Poling will address both sessions.

Bishop Cannon Raps Women Dry Law Foes

DES MOINES, Ia., May 18.—(AP)—Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, last night characterized women who follow "Mrs. Charles S. Sabin's bandwagon" for prohibition repeal as "froth."

Speaking under the auspices of the Allied Forces for Prohibition at a local church, he declared women who worked for prohibition repeal in his state never had been recognized as leaders for social welfare, and attacked what he called the "high society" organization of pronibition reformers.

M. E.'s Defend War on Run After Attack

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., May 18.—(AP)—The Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals of the Methodist Episcopal Church yesterday entered before the general conference an opinion on prohibition differing from that adopted by the conference's men's council.

It disavowed flatly the statement of Prof. George Croft Cell, of Boston University, that Methodists "confess the tragic blunder of temperance thought and strategy since 1917."

D. Stewart Patterson in an address, asserted the board makes "no such admission of a 'tragic blunder'" and assailed wet propaganda for misrepresenting the youth of America as opposed to prohibition.

Prof. Cell's statement approved by the men's council on Sunday as its official document, said the dry cause was fighting "with its back to the wall" and in grave peril of defeat. Some conference delegates later termed both the address and its adoption as "unwise."

Meanwhile, the threat of new deadlocks and a move to eliminate two more additional Episcopal areas in lieu of elections confused the situation today as the conference resumed its balloting for two new bishops.

J. Ralph Magee, of Seattle, Wash., on the eleventh ballot continued to lead with 460 votes, a loss of 42 from yesterday.

Dr. Joseph M. M. Gray of Detroit, whose deadlock with Louis O. Hartman, of Boston, earlier in the voting killed the latter's immediate chance for election, remained in second place, but he, too, was losing ground.

A change of sentiment considerably dampened the prospects of Dr. Hartman and Dr. Albert E. Day, of Pittsburgh, two erstwhile leading contenders. Dr. Day lost further ground, dropping to 112.

70 FEARED LOST IN SHIP FIRE

PARIS, May 18.—(AP)—Seventy persons who were aboard the French motorship Georges Philippar when she burned Monday off Italian Somaliland still are unaccounted for, the owners of the vessel announced today.

Officials of the Compagnie des Messageries Maritimes, the owners, said there were 505 passengers aboard the ship and 262 members of the crew, of whom 100 were Chinese and Annamites.

The French liner Andre Lebon had reached Jibuti, French Somaliland, where it was debarking 420 survivors taken off the Soviet tanker Sovietskaia Neft, said reports received at Marseilles.

Walker's Assistant Weds Wife's Sister

NEW YORK, May 18.—(INS)—News of the marriage of Charles P. Kerrigan, assistant to Mayor Walker, to his first wife's sister, Mrs. Julia Price, several months ago, was made public today.

It was kept secret because Kerrigan hoped his daughter Betty, 10, brought up by Mrs. Price after Kerrigan's wife died, shortly following the birth of the child, would continue considering Mrs. Price her real mother.

North Side Boy, 8, Attacked by Dog

Edward Schaffer, 8, of 613 Foreland street, North Side, was confined to his home today with lacerations of the right leg, suffered when he was attacked by a dog reported owned by Edward Good, of 604 Cedar avenue, late yesterday, according to police. Eleven stitches were required to close the wound at Allegheny General Hospital.

WABASH TUBE DEAL URGED BY CIVIC GROUPS

Data Submitted to County Commissioners Advising Tunnel, Bridge Purchase

Business and civic interests, backed by engineers with voluminous maps and statistics, today urged the purchase of Wabash Railroad Bridge and Tunnel by Allegheny County at a hearing in the County Office Building.

Walter Rosenbaum and A. H. Burchfield, Jr., presented the argument of the Downtown Business Men's group, resulting from an independent survey made of the physical and real estate involved in the properties. Their arguments were along the line of necessity to the Triangle district.

E. G. Kaltenbach, former county engineer, associated with Director Norman F. Brown, had assembled maps, charts and statistics to back up the argument and John M. Rice, consulting engineer, was to add the result of his investigation.

Frederick Bigger, of the City Planning Commission, who has opposed the purchase, said he would not take an active part in today's hearing. He has sponsored by-pass highways to relieve congestion in the downtown district.

tioning and checking up trips which ended in his confession.

STORY FANTASTIC

First he was required to tell his story without notes. The wild account he gave of his activities was about half the length of a best-seller novel and equally as fantastic as the weirdest hair raiser.

He was taken to point out the places he had mentioned. He was allowed the use of his notes, and he added more definite data to the mass of names, descriptions, places and "facts" he already had rattled off in encyclopaedic manner.

All day Sunday and Monday evening police intentionally left him alone. They wanted him to brood, to worry.

At midnight Monday Inspector Harry Walsh, chief of Jersey City detectives, approached Curtis in friendly fashion and asked how he would like to play a little game of checkers.

URGED TO TELL TRUTH

Walsh constantly suggested to the shipbuilder, in very kindly ways, that he "tell the truth."

At 1:15 a. m., Curtis announced:

"I am ready to tell the truth now."

Then he gave the first of his confession statements. He was ordered back to the little room in which he had been allowed, for so many hours, to mull over his fix.

Walsh appeared frequently in the door and admonished him to tell the truth.

At 4 a. m. Curtis jumped from his chair, threw it against the wall, demanded a typewriter, and then, in the gray dawn of morning, while police officials looked over his shoulder at the strange words he wrote, the once-wealthy shipbuilder tapped out "the truth."

Caution on Oiled Highways Urged

A warning to motorists was issued today by the Automobile Club of Pittsburgh against fast driving over many Western Pennsylvania highways being oiled this week. The club also pointed out that reduced speed is desirable over newly resurfaced roads.

Oil will be laid on the William Penn highway from the Cambria-Blair County line to Hollidaysburg and on the National highway from Farmington to Somerfield.

Merchants Warned Of Fake Inspectors

In the guise of county inspectors of weights and measures, men are examining scales of merchants in outlying districts and urging purchase of new weighing devices, Urban E. Dice, chief inspector of the County Weights and Measures Department, warned today. He advised merchants to demand inspectors show badge or identification card with the bearer's photograph.

South Side Child Killed by Truck

Stanley Ryphaneck, aged 4, of 2228 Sarah street, was fatally injured today when struck by a truck at Sarah and South Twenty-third streets. He was pronounced dead soon after being taken to St. Joseph's Hospital. The driver, Theodore Lesniak, 21, of 301 Talbot avenue, Braddock, was arrested.

TEACHERS TO VOTE ON PLEA TO GIVE UP 10 PCT. OF SALARIES

BUILDING PLANS FOR SCHOOLS HELD UP

Aaron Denounces Tax Laws As $1,133,877 Economy Move Is Made; Others Cut

Pittsburgh school teachers will vote this week as to whether they will accept the Board of Public Education's request that they make a voluntary refund of 10 per cent of their salaries, beginning September 1.

The plea for a voluntary wage reduction was made by the board late yesterday along with other steps for economies to be effected for the coming school year.

TO POLL TEACHERS

Miss Esther Smith, of Peabody High School, president of the Pittsburgh Teachers' Association, refused to comment on the reduction request today. She said the city's 3,300 teachers would meet in all Pittsburgh schools this week, under direction of the association, and that the decision reached at these conferences would be forwarded by her directly to Ben G. Graham, superintendent of schools.

Other economy moves by the school body adopted at yesterday's meeting are:

1—Delay of the board's 10-year building program which provides for the sale of bonds to the extent of $1,500,000 annually.

2—An approximately 10 per cent cut in salaries of all employes over whom the board has immediate control, affecting 1,700 wage earners, July 1.

MILLION SAVED

On the basis of the 1932 budget, the proposed salary cuts alone will save approximately $1,113,877.

President Marcus Aaron read a prepared statement on the proposed changes in the board's financial policy, which resulted in Dr. A. L. Lewin, board member, offering an adoption motion.

Regret that economic conditions forced the measure was expressed by Aaron and the 12 members of the board present.

Aaron, attacking the "antiquated" and "unjust" system of taxation in Pennsylvania, declared:

"Only 7 per cent of the income of the school district of Pittsburgh comes from the state. Local real estate pays the other 93 per cent.

SCHOOL FUNDS SHRINK

"A mill of taxation on real estate yielded less in 1931 than in 1930. It will yield less in 1932 than in 1931, and materially less than our budget estimates for the year. Who is optimistic enough to believe that the amount collectable for each mill of taxation in 1933 will be materially better than for the current year?"

As the minimum salaries of teachers are fixed by the Edmonds act, President Aaron said he believed the "faith that has always motivated their actions" would bring the teachers to make a voluntary return of 10 per cent of their salaries.

He declared the Legislature at its 1933 session should be asked to make a temporary reduction in the mandatory provisions of the Edmonds act for the biennium. Continuing, he said:

"If the situation at the end of that time has improved, as we hope it will, salaries will be automatically restored without legislative action. If the situation has not improved in 1935, further legislation could be adopted to meet the existing situation."

OPPOSES TAX RAISE

Explaining his reasons for recommending temporary discontinuance of the building program, Aaron said:

"An increase in taxation to be borne by the owner of real estate who is paying his taxes at a time like this would be regarded by the public as little short of criminal. A reduction in taxation is very much to be desired, but can only be brought about through rigid economy in every direction."

Pointing out some of the economies to be made, the statement averred that the reduction could finally be made only through improved collection of taxes.

School administrators were commended in the statement for having met "every constantly increasing demands of the public" and for the judicious spending of "every dollar received."

Mystery Wounding Of Man Investigated

A deep wound in his forehead, Martin Lepis, 55, of 2854 Smallman street, was in a serious condition in West Penn Hospital today as police endeavored to learn how the injury had been inflicted.

Lepis wandered into his home last night and was unable to tell Eva Kusnik, a niece, how he was injured. The niece called police, who took the man to the hospital. Physicians were to make an X-ray examination to determine if the wound had been caused by a bullet.

Massies on Flight To Kentucky Home

LOS ANGELES, May 18.—(AP)—Lieut. and Mrs. Thomas H. Massie, principals in the recent Honolulu "honor slaying case" departed today by Western Air Express, planning to transfer at Salt Lake City and reach Chicago tomorrow morning.

From Chicago the Massies will motor to Louisville, Ky., probably reaching there Monday.

TWINS NEW JOY OF STAGE STAR

The glamor of success on the musical comedy stage was far removed from the thoughts of Mrs. Helen Schulze in Pittsburgh Hospital today with Kathleen Schulze and Eileen Schulze near her.

Kathleen and Eileen are what their mother wished for when she was married a year ago—twins.

Mrs. Schulze, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Miller, of 6916 Fifth avenue, is the wife of Alfred J. Schulze, salesman, of 3253 Wainbell avenue, Dormont.

In the chorus of George White's "Flying High," she understudied the star, then succeeded her triumphantly until her marriage.

Building Strike Ends in New York

NEW YORK, May 18.—(INS)—The strike of 30,000 construction workers in the building trades was ended today. The men will return to their jobs tomorrow, ending the paralysis in the city's building industry. The workers accepted wage reductions up to 30 per cent originally proposed by the employers.

2 Sought in Attack In Avella Strike Zone

WASHINGTON, Pa., May 18.—Police today are searching for two men, who, Dan Holdsworth, 19, says attacked him while en route to the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Company mine at Avella. A strike has been in progress at the mine for several weeks.

MILLIONAIRE'S 'LOVE SLAVE' GETS $6,000

Jury Puts All Blame on Man, Clears Mother; Suit of Girl Asked for $250,000

International News Service.

NEW YORK, May 18.—A jury today decided that Otto Young Heyworth's influence over Mona O'Connor is worth $6,000.

This was the sum awarded to the girl, who claimed she was the young millionaire's "love slave." She asked $250,000. And the money was a kick of the playboy himself, not of his mother, Mrs. Selma G. Young, against whom Mona's suit was jointly filed.

ALL BLAME ON MAN

The responsibility for the change in Mona's personality, described by her sister as striking indeed, was all Otto's, the 12 men concluded. The charge that his mother "lavished money on the girl," even financing an idyllic trip to Bermuda, was thus thrown out.

Mrs. Young, described by the girl's attorney as "a woman of position, power, influence and money," screamed loudly yesterday that she had not given Mona $400, as was charged.

Mrs. Gloria Mattern, of Boston, sister of the taxi dancer "who was bound to Heyworth by an insidious affection," according to the dancer's own testimony, described Mona as "a home girl" before she met Heyworth.

HEYWORTH IN SANATORIUM

This contradicted the testimony of Patricia Haight, former show-girl, who graphically told of "strip poker" parties at which Mona lost cheerfully.

Heyworth, now in a sanatorium, did not appear at court.

MILITARY RULE IN HAWAII URGED

WASHINGTON, May 18.—(INS)—Military control of Hawaii as America's first outpost of defense in the Pacific was proposed in a bill introduced in the House today by Representative Britten (Rep.) of Illinois.

The measure was inspired both by the Massie "honor slaying" case and the strategic importance of the islands.

It would require the President to name a Governor of Hawaii from officers of the Army and Navy, either on the active or retired list. Under present law the Governor must be a citizen of Hawaii.

The measure further gives the Governor complete veto power over the Hawaiian Legislature and in time of war makes the Governor a dictator of the territory. Hawaii also would be transferred from jurisdiction of the Interior Department to either the Navy or War Department.

Harris Will Carry Fight For Voting Machine Quiz to Pinchot

To the highest authority in Pennsylvania—Gov. Pinchot—Senator Frank J. Harris planned today to carry his fight to reopen the State Senate's investigation of the sale of $1,000,000 of vote machines in Allegheny County.

He announced this after his two colleagues, C. W. Parkinson, of Greene County, and Joseph G. Armstrong, Jr., yesterday voted to adjourn the State Senate's investigation until "definite charges are made."

The other two members of the Senate Investigation Committee are Senators John W. Howell of Wilkes-Barre, and Warren Roberts, of Bethlehem.

HARRIS RENEWS EFFORTS

Senator Harris in a statement, said:

"In the near future, I will confer with the Governor, the Attorney General and the Secretary of the Commonwealth in an effort to secure for the committee the help necessary to make a thorough investigation. I realize this cannot be accomplished in a short time but will require considerable effort and much work to compile all the facts and gather the information to bring it to the attention of the public who are entitled to know all about it."

Senator Harris pointed out that the committee is without legal counsel, investigators, accountants or power to serve subpenas to witnesses outside the state.

Alexander P. Lindsay, counsel for the Citizens' Voting Machine Committee, yesterday quit the investigation because he was not allowed to question H. D. Hirsh on how royalties were paid on the vote machine contracts. He declares he will shun the Senate Committee until there is a real investigation. He said:

"I still represent the Citizens' Voting Machine Committee."

EVIDENCE SOUGHT

Senators Parkinson and Armstrong brought the meeting to a close yesterday against Harris' vote. This occurred after Parkinson had asked for evidence that the machiens had not been delivered on time, that certain companies were not equipped to perform the contracts or that public officials were financially interested in any of the voting machine companies.

Silence followed each question.

Attorney O. K. Eaton, counsel for Hirsh, demanded to know what his client was accused of.

Parkinson said:

"I thing it's time to skate or get off the ice."

Armstrong said:

"Until charges are made, I move we adjourn."

Two Banks Cut Interest Rate, Others to Follow

Two of Pittsburgh's largest banks—the Mellon National and the Union Trust Company—today announced that after June 15, they will pay 3 per cent interest on all savings accounts.

Since June 1, 1931, Pittsburgh banks have been paying 3 per cent on accounts accepted on or after that date and, usually, four on old accounts.

Today's announcement means that all accounts in the two banks regardless of when they were started, will receive 3 per cent.

Carl D. Fogle, manager of the Pittsburgh Clearinghouse Association, said that practically all the banks are expected to follow the lead of the Mellon and Union Trust, adopting similar policies when their next interest period starts.

The Dollar Savings Bank, a mutual savings institution, which for five years has paid 4½ per cent on savings deposits will fix its rate for the next interest period at a board meeting on Friday.

An official, who said that a 4 per cent interest was being contemplated, explained that mutual savings banks' interest rates are determined each interest period by a vote of the board.

Pittsburgh banks now are paying higher interest rates on savings accounts than those prevailing in nearly all other leading cities. Early in 1931 reductions were made in other parts of the country.

The desire for lower rates is due to the fact that banks are having difficulty in employing their money at a profit. The unsettled state of business compels conservative institutions to invest funds in only the strongest securities, and the yield of these invariably is low. In addition, banks have felt obliged to keep larger cash reserves during the past year, and this also has reduced their income.

BOWLING GREEN PARK DELAYS OPENED IN PARK POOR FUND QUIZ

The old-fashioned game of bowls was resurrected today with the official opening in Schenley Park when Mrs. Robert MacGowan, wife of the Rev. Robert MacGowan, of the Bellefield Presbyterian Church, threw the first "jack" on Pittsburgh's new bowling green. Those taking part in the dedication were: Director of Public Works Edward Lang; Supt. of Parks James Moore; Nathan Schein, city engineer; the Rev. and Mrs. Robert MacGowan; William Munro, of Wilmerding, and George Charlesworth, secretary of the Wilmerding Y. M. C. A.

The game is Scotch, and dates back before the time of Shakespeare. Before the Revolution bowls was played in the lower end of New York City, which is now named Bowling Green.

Dr. MacGowan said:

"It is the finest bowling green I have ever seen."

Director Lang said:

"It took us more than a year to build this green, at a cost of $4,500."

Cold Weather Balks Moscow Sports Show

MOSCOW, May 18.—(AP)—There was to have been a big sports parade in Red Square today, but the weather, which had been balmy for two weeks, suddenly turned too cold for track suits and the show was called off.

Seventy-five thousand men and women, dressed in shorts and sweaters, shivered most of the morning as they awaited information in the streets for the signal to start marching.

California Avenue Project Delayed

Failure of Council two weeks ago to pass an opening ordinance caused further delay yesterday in considering the widening of California avenue 700 feet from Sedgwick street, west. A report submitted by the Public Works Department said possible damages will total $70,000 and the physical work will cost $40,000.

District Attorney Andrew T. Park said yesterday he would not investigate charges of waste and corruption against the Allegheny County Poor Board until a pending equity suit against the board is settled. Charges against the board were made last fall by a visiting committee appointed by the court.

The equity suit brought by Walter Rhiel, seeks to recover $750,000 which directors J. Clyde Miller and H. H. Dixon and the late Dr. W. J. Henderson are alleged to have expended wastefully.

Prior to the equity suit the visiting committee, composed of Attorneys Ellerton H. Wicks, C. M. McDonald and Paul M. Hutchison filed a report charging mismanagement and improper handling of funds.

BORAH PREDICTS 3RD PARTY ON RELIEF ISSUE

Warns Congress of Bolt If Major Groups Fail to Meet Responsibility Now

WASHINGTON, May 18.—(AP)—Warning of a possible third party movement unless Congress enacts an unemployment relief program before the party conventions, was sounded in the Senate today by Senator Borah (Rep.), of Idaho.

He said he could not conceive of the two great parties going to their conventions without having adopted a program for relieving the jobless. He declared:

"If anything would call a third party into existence that would."

Senator Watson, the Republican leader, promptly gave his personal assurance that the legislative program contemplated relief legislation.

HOUSE TO ACT

Meanwhile on the House side of the Capitol, Speaker Garner and Representative Snell, the Republican leader, told newspapermen the House would not adjourn or recess until the tax appropriations and economy bills are passed "conventions or no conventions."

Both declined to say what they would do about relief proposals.

In the Senate debate Borah asserted:

"I can't conceive of Congress adjourning or recessing until it has faced this problem. It would be a betrayal of public interest that could hardly be measured in language."

GLASS FIGHTS 'DOLE'

Senator Glass (Dem.), of Virginia, asserted he had "rather let Virginia levy her own tax and take care of her own unemployed than to have the government collect a tax, bring it here and then dole it back."

Borah agreed with that, but said some of the states and cities have "reached the limit."

The Idahoan added the assertion that the limit of property taxation had not been reached in many instances, however, and that he was in favor of reaching it before allowing any one to suffer.

'OXYGEN BABY' CLINGS TO LIFE

Donald Seiler, 16 months, pneumonia victim, today began inhaling his eighth tank of oxygen, in his home at 2505 Gable street.

For 60 hours, policemen, in relays, have been administering oxygen to the child, at intervals of 10 minutes.

Dr. Edward F. Truter reported the child's condition fair but said the crisis had not yet been reached.

Simon Seiler, father of the infant, said he had been out of work for two years. There are two other children in the family.

Liquor Defendants Get One-Day Terms

One-day jail sentences were imposed by Federal Judge F. P. Schoonmaker on James Jones and Claude McDonald, Negroes, for violating the prohibition law when he learned they had been in jail in default of bond since their arrest 69 days ago in a Fullerton street raid by prohibition agents.

When they were brought into court without counsel, Judge Schoonmaker asked Attorney Charles I. Houston, a deputy court clerk, to represent them. McDonald pleaded guilty of selling and possessing liquor. Jones stood trial and was acquitted of sale, but convicted for possession.

2nd Division Men Map Member Drive

Plans for a membership drive of the Second Division Association of the 'merican Expeditionary Force were discussed at the regular quarterly meeting of the organization last night in the Duquesne Building. Other extensive plans for the future were discussed at the meeting which was attended by many of the soldiers and marines who served with the division during the war.

Former Police Chief Sues for $145 Pay

BEAVER, Pa., May 18.—William Davidson, former police chief of Beaver Falls, wants to be paid for three 10-day suspensions given him by Mayor C. W. Calvin. He filed suit against the city for $145.

'Bugs' Unearths Dark Secrets Of Lobbygows

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

Our undercover man in the blanket factory has squealed on his brother lobbyists in Washington.

While not mentioning names, he gives us the following list of active lobbygows:

The mouthpiece for the telephone corporation.

The contact man in the electric chair.

The outside man for the inns.

The door man for the knob industry.

The bank where you can cash anonymous checks.

The fixer. And he ain't no mechanic.

The front man at the back entrance.

And finally the ghost cafeteria where you get secret service.

PONTIFF WARNS OF ANARCHY

ily unaffected, either directly or indirectly.

"Even those few who seemed to hold in their hands with untold riches the world's fate, and who through their own speculations were the cause of so much ill, became the first damaging victims, pulling down with them numberless fortunes, thus confirming what Christ said:

"'The sinner will be punished through his own sin.'

GREED ROOT OF ILLS

"Greed is the root of every ill, being sordid egotism, and has pushed the world into its present dire straits.

"From greed proceeds the unjust, unequal distribution of the wealth of nations, accumulated in a few hands with untold sufferings to the masses.

"The same egotism, exploiting legitimate patriotism, pushed it to exaggerated nationalism, embittering international relations so that every excess seems justified, and what is deplored among individuals becomes permissable and even praised when accomplished in the name of exaggerated nationalism.

"The great law of human love has been replaced by hatred, while healthy principles have been trodden upon, and the solid foundations of right and loyalty, upon which the state is rested, are forsaken."

The Pontiff then struck at "the enemies of every social order, such as Communists and atheists," who he said profit by the world's sufferings to break every divine and human law in declaring war against religion and against God.

WARNS OF ATHEISM

"Today atheism has reached great masses by filtering into schools, making use of films, phonographs and radio for propaganda, by printing leaflets in all languages and holding exhibitions and creating its own military and economic organizations.

"We know they shall not win because the Divine Saviors are watching, and it is comforting to see the rush of love to God.

"This choice is offered to human liberty—for God, or against God? Which must decide humanity's fate?

"Those who do not wish anarchy must act energetically to prevent the enemies of religion from achieving their aims. They must act through prayer, which will help in eliminating the unlimited greed for earthly goods which is the real cause for the present difficulties.

HOPE IN PRAYER

"If those who through excessive industrial production have fallen into unemployment and poverty would give adequate time to prayer, work and production would resume at a reasonable rate while the social struggle will be superseded by a nobler, more peaceful quest to achieve celestial and eternal goods.

"This also is the open way to peace. Therefore let everybody pray for peace, but especially those having government responsibilities. To prayer it is necessary to add repentance and voluntary self-sacrifice, even when it is the most painful."

The encyclical was dated May 3. Summaries of the message were to be broadcast from the Vatican Radio Station in several languages, each summary taking about 10 minutes. They were to begin with the English translation at about 4:30 p. m. (Pittsburgh time) over a wave length of 50.26 meters.

Cost Accountants To Hear W. F. Sims

W. F. Sims, director of research and methods of the Felt and Farrant Manufacturing Company, Chicago, will address the Pittsburgh chapter of the National Association of Cost Accountants at dinner tonight in William Penn Hotel. Schneider Asks New Trial in Vote Case

John "Jack" Schneider, former First Ward constable, has asked a new trial, following his conviction last week of causing two persons to register fraudulently before the last September primary.

Schneider declared the verdict was against the weight of evidence, and asked 30 days in which to file additional reasons. The motion will be argued probably at the September term of court, until when Schneider will be free on bail.

The Guaranteed Washable feature alone will save you many, many dollars on dry-cleaning bills, and will suggest that you have more than one sports-type summer dress of this easy-to-take-care-of silk.

Thirty colors comprise the initial selection ... pastels and street shades ... and every one of them fashion-sponsored for this season. For wearing quality, there are few silks the equal of Aphrodite ... and you can verify this statement by seeing this silk ... feeling the texture ... and making your prettiest summer dress from it.

Five Pattern Services—Vogue, McCall, Pictorial, Paris and Butterick—will give you many suggestions for new summer frocks.

Line Your Garden Walks with

Fertil-Potted Tree Roses

$1.45

This really isn't an entry in the Ripley contest, but a sale—and a very specially priced one at that—in which roses that grow on a tree are offered at a very low price. Popular varieties of roses are grafted on sturdy trunks — and the result is a bushy-topped tree that bears blooming roses profusely.

These Tree Roses are imbedded in fertilized soil—ready to be transplanted to your garden and to grow immediately.

LISTENING IN Broadcast Briefs; Studio Gossip ON THE AIR

Paderewski Heard on WCAE Tonight in First Radio Address in U. S.

Pleading for international peace and security for his native Poland, Ignace Paderewski, noted pianist statesman, makes his first radio appearance in this country when he speaks over a nationwide NBC hookup, including WCAE at 10:30 tonight on "Poland and Peace."

Although this is his second radio appearance, Paderewski's pianistic technique has never been heard over the air. His only previous broadcasting experience, when he spoke in England, was as the statesman, as is his appearance tonight. The 72-year-old former premier of Poland speaks from the Hotel Astor in New York, under the auspices of the Civic Forum, the American - Polish Chamber of Commerce and Industry and the Council on Foreign Relations.

Paderewski

Frazier Hunt, who is in Tokio surveying conditions in the Orient for the International News Service, will be heard in a broadcast over a coast-to-coast NBC network Friday night at 6:45. His talk will be a summary of conditions in troubled Japan. The broadcast will originate in the studios of JOAK, Tokio, short waved to San Francisco and rebroadcast over the network. Short wave transmitters at Schenectady and Oakland will send the program to Australia, South America and the Far East.

Ben Bernie will present two commercial chain broadcasts from the studios of WJAS Monday night. The first will be given at 9 for Eastern and Middle Western listeners over a network of 29 stations. The second, presented at 1:30 a. m., is for Pacific Coast listeners, over a 12-station chain. Pittsburgh fans will hear only the first broadcast. Commercial credits in both programs will be handled by Howard Clark, WJAS announcer.

Program Pointers

Mlle. Diane Laval, who spent several years in France studying music, presents another of her programs of "Songs in the French Manner" from KDKA today at 4:15 . . . Grace Moore sings hits from the first "Music Box Revue," in which she made her debut as a Broadway star, when she is co-starred with the Revelers on WCAE tonight at 9 . . . Kate Smith, who's been bringing the moon over the mountain for the last year, introduces her new theme song, "Just a Singer of Songs," on WJAS at 8:30 tonight. Irving Berlin wrote the number specially for her.

Mlle. Laval

A rebroadcast from London today at 3 brings a performance in the famous Royal Opera House, Convent Garden, to WCAE listeners. The program consists of the first act of Wagner's opera, "The Flying Dutchman."

"Italian Sketches," a new program of characterizations, makes its debut on WWSW tonight at 9:30.

Edwin W. Kemmerer, research professor of international finance at Princeton University and financial adviser to many governments, speaks on "The United States and the Gold Standard" on WCAE tonight at 8:30.

Pittsburgh's higher institutions are represented on WWSW at 7 when the "Campus Notes" program is heard, and at 7:15 when "Between Classes at Pitt" with the Town Tattler's Orchestra is scheduled. The Duquesne Band Wagon presents a medley of dance tunes at 9.

Question Box

Is Clifford Marshall, program director, still with WCAE?—J. P. L., Bellevue.

Yes, "Cliff" is still with WCAE. Nearly all of the special musical arrangements heard on the WCAE studio programs are his work.

Tips for Golfers On WCAE

Charley Manning, of Shannopin, and Ted Luther, of Valley Heights, leading professional golfers, tip devotees of the game on how to improve their form when they appear as guest speakers with the Trained Seals on WCAE tonight at 6:50. Other speakers are Steve Swetonic, shutout sensation of the Pirates; Max Carey, manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers; Dazzy Vance and Casey Stengel.

The political activities of the city, state and nation are discussed by Mark Shields, political editor of the Sun-Telegraph, during his regular weekly talk on WCAE tonight at 6.

A fascinating program for the children is heard during the Sun-Telegraph Family broadcast from WCAE today at 4:45.

Artists featured in the Sun-Telegraph Nite Club on WCAE tonight at 11 are Betty Cruikshank, contralto, and Paul Gannon, tenor, with David Levin's Orchestra. Herb McGee officiates at the microphone.

Madelon is heard in a gay chat of special interest to women during her "Reflections of Madelon's Mirror," broadcast from WCAE tomorrow at 10:30 a. m.

Erie Democrats Have Two Chairmen

ERIE, Pa., May 18.—(AP.)—Erie Democrats have two chairmen today. Austin V. O'Brien was elected chairman at a meeting of 50 county committeemen called by himself.

James F. Lavery, regular chairman, termed the O'Brien group "insurgents" and said court action will be taken to prevent them from using the county committee title. The regular organization meeting, he said, will be held June 2

Writes Will, Slashes Throat in Jail Cell

BEAVER, Pa., May 18. Alex Fatigat, 35, of Monaca, is in a serious condition today in Rochester Hospital after slashing his throat with a razor blade in the County Jail. He wrote a will leaving his estate to his 10-year-old daughter.

Last Saturday he appeared at state police barracks, New Brighton, and asked protection, declaring blackmailers had threatened him with death unless he paid $100 a month for 31 months. He was put in jail for his own safety.

Uniontown Tragedy Takes Officer's Job

UNIONTOWN, Pa., May 18.—E. G. Faris, veteran patrolman, today stood dismissed by Council because he failed to halt a quarrel between Mr. and Mrs. Steve Yedeskey, which resulted in three deaths. Denied admittance to the Yedeskey home, Faris, it was testified, started for the police station to get a tear gas bomb and while absent Yedeskey killed his wife, his mother-in-law, Mrs. Lena J. Ache, and himself.

Big Gold Discovery Reported in Brazil

RIO DE JANEIRO, May 18.—(AP.)—Reports from Manaos, Brazil, say an important gold mine was discovered on the left bank of the Sucurum River near there. A week of production, the reports said, resulted in more than 700 kilograms of gold.

BLACK AND WHITE CHIC COMBINATION

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, May 18.—Lucile's afternoon dress in the sketch is in black and white this time of soft but heavy ribbed silk. The skirt seems to be straight and simple, but as a matter of fact the adroit cutting concentrates a certain amount of fullness at the right side, underneath the big bow and mother-of-pearl buckle of the girdle. The overblouse, which is of the white silk, has the new shoulders which are raglan at the front, but seamless at the back. They are tied into place, like the neckline with a bow of the fabric.

'Believe It or Not' Mail Heaviest on Last Day

Yesterday's mail in the national Ripley "Believe It Or Not" contest, which has been running in the Sun-Telegraph for 16 days and closed at midnight Monday, brought the largest number of entries recorded in any one day of the contest. Believe it or not, Mr. Ripley has a large job ahead of him if he personally reads the 15,000, or more, unbelievable facts that the Sun-Telegraph readers have unearthed for him.

The final 10 daily prize winners, all of whom will get a Ripley Book, and whose suggestions will be considered in the award of the grand prizes, are:

Kathryn C. Walters, 111 Fourth street, Toronto, O.

Charles W. Laffler, 1308 Goettman street, Pittsburgh.

Warren M. Columbia, Burgettstown.

Frank A. Costanzo, P. O. Box 32, Punxsutawney.

NEW HOSPITAL COST REDUCED

The new Eye and Ear Hospital on the site of the University of Pittsburgh Medical Center, will be a finer institution than originally planned and will be built for approximately 60 per cent of the originally estimated cost according to John E. Crawford, of the building committee. The cornerstone will be laid Friday afternoon.

Crawford today said the building cost was estimated when the campaign for funds was launched five years ago, but lower building and material prices since have made possible a saving of approximately 40 per cent.

Three hundred building tradesworkmen are constructing the first two units of the hospital plant. One wing, of 100 beds, will be occupied by the Eye and Ear institution, and the main structure will house the Presbyterian Hospital. Other wings, to be erected later, will be devoted to gynecology, skin and cancer and psychiatric phases.

CHIROPRACTOR FACES CHARGE

J. S. Harney, of the Zug Building, Carnegie, a chiropractor, was held for court under $1,000 bond last night when arraigned before Justice of the Peace George B. Shields, of Wilkinsburg, charged with practicing without a license. Harney was arrested on complaint of J. C. Freeland, investigator for the state license board, who preferred the information. It was charged Harney represented himself as a medical doctor.

S. H. Whitehouse, of 1517 Irwin avenue, and Louis Walter, of 1435 Woods Run avenue, will be given hearings before Squire Shields Monday night on charges of representing themselves as undertakers. They also were arrested on complaint of Freeland, who said they were practicing without licenses. They posted bonds of $1,000 pending the hearing.

Union High School Graduation May 31

Commencement exercises for the 331 graduates of Union High School, Turtle Creek, will be held Tuesday, May 31, in the high school auditorium. Elizabeth Khinar will deliver the valedictory address. Baccalaureate services will be held Sunday, May 29, with the Rev. A. R. Mansberger, pastor of the Turtle Creek Methodist Protestant Church, delivering the sermon.

Autos, Stills Seized By Drys in April

During April prohibition agents under the direction of R. S. Krause, deputy administrator for Western Pennsylvania, seized 31 automobiles, 21 stills, 3 "wildcat" breweries, 4,821 gallons of beer, 2,730 gallons of spirits, 703 gallons of wine and 20,976 gallons of mash, according to a report issued from prohibition headquarters. The report recorded the arrest of 276 persons in 216 cases.

Needy Families Aided By 'Good Samaritan'

MRS. DIMPLE DISTRIBUTING BREAD..."GOOD SAMARITAN"

Children of Miners Flock Around Car To Get Bread

The "Good Samaritan" of the mining districts of Broughton and Horning, is Mrs. Louise Dimple, 4012 Dalwood avenue, Brentwood, first aid nurse to Dr. D. M. Davis, Broughton. For the past two years, she has been gathering up day-old bread from bakeries in the South Hills and distributing it among poor families in the Broughton district.

At least twice a week, and sometimes oftener, Mrs. Dimple loads several hundred loaves of bread in the back of her car and makes her rounds. She has nearly 25 families on her regular route. There are six children in the smallest family and 12 children in the largest. With an average of 500 loaves a week, she has distributed nearly 48,000 loaves of bread in the last two years. She said:

"Working with Dr. Davis, I saw so many families whose cubboards were absolutely bare. I knew a great many bakers sold their stale bread to farmers for hogs and chickens. I asked them to let me have it at the same cost. When I could no longer afford to personally meet the increasing demands, the bakers generously donated the bread. Sometimes they gave me quantities of raisin bread, doughnuts or cakes. That is a real treat to the children."

Mrs. Dimple also occasionally collects wall paper, paint and odds and ends of furniture and clothing from more prosperous families in the neighborhood and distributes it among the less fortunate miners. The children all watch for her on her bi-weekly trips and gather around her car while she gives them bread.

BEQUESTS LEFT TO CHARITIES

Charitable institutions benefit by the will of William Spettel, of Springdale, disposing of an estate worth $70,000. The Salvation Army, Pennsylvania Association for the Blind, St. Barnabas Home for Incurables at Gibsonia, the Evangelical Home for Old Folks at Dorseyville and the Parting of the Ways Home share in one-quarter of the residue. Each was also left $500. Relatives and friends receive the rest of the estate.

Mrs. Maggie E. McCormick, of Wilkinsburg, widow of Joseph Q. A. McCormick, left her $7,500 estate to the Pittsburgh Association for the Improvement of the Poor, after $2,000 is given the First Presbyterian Church, North Side, $600 to it's mission funds and $1,000 to the Central Presbyterian Church, North Side, and small bequests to friends.

Identical wills of Antonio Bongiovanni and his wife, Rosamaria Bongiovanni, of Carnegie, who died within three months of each other, left a $6,000 estate, to three daughters.

Mary J. Tait, 5521 Beverly place, left a $20,000 estate to her husband, Attorney Edwin E. Tait, for life. At his death it goes to Edgar W. Tait, a son, and Rilla B. Tait, a daughter.

Typothetae Elects Shields President

William A. Shields, of the William G. Johnson Company, today was the new president of the Typothetae, Pittsburgh's master printers. Shields was elected at a meeting last night in Fort Pitt Hotel, at which Homer Kline was named vice president; Thomas E. Griffin, treasurer, and C. LeRoy Beet, secretary.

Woman Cut in Fight, Assailant Sought

Blanche Hammond, 34, a Negro of 510 Protectory place, cut on the face and body by another Negro during an argument in her home last night, was reported in a critical condition in Passavant Hospital today, according to police. Police are searching for her assailant.

23 Nurses Graduate In St. John's Class

Plays and Players

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Eddie Leonard, who will come to the Alvin Saturday with the Friars' Frolic, was born 30 years too soon. Given back his years, he'd probably be leading the popular radio crooners of the day. Eddie, you know, invented a style of singing all his own, and he never had a successful imitator. Old timers remember his "Dinah," "Roly-Boly Eyes" and other ditties that had a peculiarly fascinating lilt marked by a prolonged undulating note. In his more recent visits here as a vaudeville artist, the audience always insisted upon hearing the two old favorites mentioned. Eddie came prominently before the public in the Honey Boy Evans Minstrels, a star-studded organization that was great entertainment and packed 'em in, but still lost a fortune for its backers, Cohan and Harris because of its cost. Eddie will bring another Leonard, Eddie, Jr., when he comes Saturday with other Frolickers for matinee and evening shows.

* * *

Frank Moulan, the Sir Joseph Porter of "Pinafore," which, with "Trial by Jury," forms the double bill that will complete the first phase of the Gilbert and Sullivan festival in the Nixon tomorrow night, has been a Gilbertian and Sullivanian for so long that he has forgotten how many thousands of times he has appeared in Savoy opera. But he knows he has played 12 roles in eight different works, which means that in half of them he has played two roles. He is now Sir Joseph Porter, but he also has played Dick Deadeye in "Pinafore." His first G. & S. part was Sir Joseph, played more than 35 years ago for Henry W. Savage. And thereby hangs a tale. His bankroll was ample for an actor in those days until he remembered he had to buy a pair of pumps—patent leather—reducing the funds in hand to 11 cents. He was in New York, the theater in Brooklyn. Three cents just to walk across the bridge—more to ride. What to do? Thrift won and he walked. In the middle of the bridge a shower came up. He arrived at the theater thoroughly soaked, but with the pumps inside his coat, dry and shiny. A short time later Sir Joseph was on the stage resplendent in rich satin, wearing glistening pumps, while back in the dressing room was an actor's pants with eight cents in a pocket. He told the story here while renouncing with an old friend, Charles R. MacLoon, of the Sun-Telegraph.

Ann Harding's Film Set Back

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, May 18.—Ann Harding will not turn glamorous yet a while.

"Bed of Roses," the picture in which she was to assume a new and more colorful screen personality, has been postponed in favor of the Phillip Barry play, Animal Kingdom, in which she is to be starred as her second picture.

Ann Harding

The change is one of expediency. Both Ann and David Selznick always have wanted Leslie Howard to repeat his Broadway role in Animal Kingdom. But it developed that Howard would not be available at the time date. Rather than lose him, the studio decided to change its production schedule.

This means that Ann will have to curtail her vacation, but she sees the necessity and has agreed.

As matters stand now, Bed of Roses simply will switch places with the Barry comedy. It's the original story by Adela Rogers St. Johns.

Among the bigger laughs of the week is that telephone conversation between Arthur Caesar and Edward Anthony's Brown, the original "Whitey" of "Queer People."

It seems that Brown was out with some friends and at 4 a. m. got the idea of calling Caesar.

"Hello, Arthur," he shouted jovially, "how are you?"

And Caesar flipped right back: "Okay, I can't sleep either. Where's the party?"

AND SO TO GOSSIP

The Harold Lloyds are planning to take a villa on the Riviera this summer and leaving the children there, to make a leisurely tour of Europe. Neither Harold or Mildred have ever been abroad, several times they've planned a trip, but pictures or babies have interfered . . . If you're two or three hours to spare, ask John Milian about his new baby . . . Now Paramount has decided to change the title of "Merton of the Talkies" to "Gates of Hollywood" . . . Sylvia Sidney is moving to the beach for the summer, while Clive Brook has taken over the old Lasky residence in Hollywood . . . W. F. Carey, president of Madison Square Garden, wires okaying the Thomson Burtis script glorifying this famous sport arena.

Joel McCrea outdoes Clark Gable in the matter of sweaters. He owns 33 varieties . . . One of Hollywood's most famous restaurants never had heard of Ralph Bellamy and refused to take his check the other evening. His guests had to chip in and buy the dinner. Such is fame . . . One of the purposes of Al Jolson's personal appearance engagement in San Francisco was to try out the song numbers that he and Irving Caesar have written for his new picture. Unless the songs go over, they will be chucked out.

Joe E. Brown

BROWN STILL ABED

It seems inevitable that Warners will have to postpone Joe E. Brown's picture, "You Said a Mouthful."

The comedian still is in the hospital, where he lies suspended in a canvas swing waiting for his back injuries to improve. X-rays indicate that two vertebrae are out of place and two more are "frozen." While his condition is not dangerous, it is very painful and may take some time to heal.

The comedian is not sure when he received the injuries. They may be traceable to an accident during a baseball game some time back.

Meanwhile thousands of fans and celebrities are writing him at the Cedars of Lebanon Hospital.

It's Tough

Mary Brian is a feature player in "It's Tough to Be Famous," opening today in the Enright and Friday in the Davis.

LEGAL QUESTION BLOCKS BIDS

The County Department of Highways has been drawing specifications that are illegal, in the opinion of the county solicitor, so readvertisement for crack-filling machinery to be used in the road department has been directed by the Commissioners.

Awarding of a contract for rub guard rails on the new West End-North Side Bridge has been held up until legality of the specifications is passed on by the solicitor.

In both cases Commissioner Charles C. McGovern brought out that the specifications had been drawn so that nothing but patented articles could be used and all other bidders excluded. The Beckwith Machinery Company's bid of $506.75 for Butch Crack Filling Machines was rejected and readvertisement ordered.

Coal Tipple Burns At Cresson Mine

CRESSON, Pa., May 18.—The tipple of Mine No. 3 of the Pennsylvania Coal and Coke Corporation, east of here, was destroyed by fire late yesterday. Officials of the corporation said the loss would be about $4,500 and that construction would be started immediately on a new tipple.

Boy's Death Brings Curb on Fumigation

Pittsburgh's ordinance regulating fumigation of buildings was adopted by Swissvale Borough Council last night as the result of the death recently of Charles Bunn, Jr., 7, when he entered his home while it was being fumigated.

Contract for removal of garbage was let to the O'Connor Transfer Company of Swissvale.

The cast includes Constance Globbe, Helen Jackson, Mary Alton, Marie Cyphers, Walter Mahler and Ruth Bleil.

Akron Mishap In Hearst News

THE GLOBE TROTTER

No more thrilling and dramatic motion picture subject has ever been made than of the attempt of the mighty dirigible Akron to make an emergency stop at Camp Kearny near San Diego, Cal., and contained in the current issue of Hearst Metrotone News. The pictures made from the ground and the airship itself show the Akron approaching the field. The land crew runs to the dangling mooring cable and pulls on the guy ropes attached to the cable, trying to bring down the big ship. A sudden blast of wind, however, causes the Akron to rise, lifting the men with it. All but three release their hold and jump to safety. Robert Imfall, Nigel Henson and Rod Cowart are swept upwards. First Imfall then Henson are forced to let go and crash to their deaths. Cowart manages to get his feet around the cable and is carefully raised upward. After clinging for nearly two hours he is finally hauled aboard to safety. The 19-year-old sailor tells Hearst Metrotone News of his harrowing experience and of his great relief to find himself aboard the Akron. The current Hearst Metrotone News is on the screen of the Penn, Fulton and other theaters.

BRING BACK BEER

There are spectacular pictures of New York City's great beer parade in which 100,000 marchers and more than two million lined the sidewalks cheering the paraders. Mayor Walker, who conceived and headed the parade stops long enough in front of the Hearst Metrotone mike to declare that "a hundred thousand New Yorkers can't be wrong." Countless bands fill the air with stirring tunes and tons of ticker tape and confetti are showered upon the marchers. Seldom has New York seen such a remarkable demonstration, a full description of which is provided by the Globe Trotter.

Just to prove that his winning of the Kentucky Derby was not an accident, Burgoo King is shown capturing the historic Preakness at Pimlico only a week later in one of the most exciting finishes of any horse race. The nine starters are bunched until the home stretch when Burgoo King pushes forward to win by a head from Tick On, who beats Boatswain by a nose for second. Burgoo King by this victory added another $50,000 to his winnings.

Metrotone presents the message from President Hoover to the American people in which the chief executive pledges all the force at the government's command to aid in bringing to justice the captors and murderers of the Lindbergh baby.

FIGHTERS TRAIN

Max Schmeling, heavyweight champion of the world, and Jack Sharkey, are shown as they start training for the title bout. Schmeling is pictured punching the bag and sparring at his camp in Kingston, New York, while Sharkey is shown at Orangesburgh, New York, skipping the rope and punching the bag. Both men talk.

The only talking pictures ever made of Tsuyoshi Inukai, premier of Japan, who was assassinated, are shown. In a speech in his native tongue, which is interpreted by E. L. Neville, U. S. Embassy counsellor, the prime minister makes a plea for peace.

Returning

Dick Powell, his work finished on the movie lots, returns to the Stanley stage Friday.

MUSIC

Harvey Efimove
Y. M. & W. H. A.

Harvey Efimove, pantomimist and singer of character songs, gave another of his interesting recitals in the Y. M. & W. H. A. auditorium last night before a large and cosmopolitan audience which appreciated thoroughly every one of his offerings.

Mr. Lissfelt

The program was made of purely Russian folk songs, Gypsy and Yiddish lyrics, and a group of Chassiddic potpraits. All of this music is characteristic of the Orient and consequently if not relieved by intelligent suggestion, costuming of scenery is very monotonous.

Efimove's choice last night was not too fortunate. Had he cut some verses and taken a greater variety in the tempo of his music the entire concert might have brightened. But his pantomime is always restrained and within the picture. With the slightest of gestures he suggests endless variety of moods, and since his last appearance he has acquired vignettes of scenery against which he plays with greater enhancement of the portraits he is creating.

In makeup and all the art of the stage he is physique, in his pathos and humor he is gentle and what he gives is in miniature cast. His singing still wants security in intonation, but he has moments when his voice shows real possibilities.

Jerome Tagress played very clever accompaniments. The scenery was by Carmen R. Carnevale.

J. FRED LISSFELT

TWO BOYS HELD IN SHOOTING

Joseph Schmidt, 14, was recovering in his home at 2126 Wenke street today from an accidental bullet wound and two friends, Joseph Antanovich, 15, of the same address, and Walter Dill, 15, of 2650 Quarry street, were being detained in the Juvenile Detention Home.

Police said young Schmidt was shot in the thigh last night when the revolver discharged accidentally as he and young Antanovich were examining it.

KIDNAPED! CHAINED!
And what a howl of laughter when this gay and frisky flirt is carried off at midnight-stringing and fighting for her release. Spirited by plane to a lonely hunting lodge, she turned up with her captor, he-guy. He had made a wager she couldn't trick a he-man into love, but he turned the tables on her, and tricked her into real love.
IT'S A PANIC OF LAUGHTER!

BITS OF LIFE

All in a Day

By MARK HELLINGER

HIGHLY AMUSING to me is the manner in which some men will discuss international politics without having the slightest knowledge of the subject. I have listened to a race track man as he expounded his belief that a German election that went the wrong way would have a decided effect on the price of American shoes. I have nodded agreeably as a ham actor gave me complete details of a Russian plot to undermine France.

As a concrete illustration, I sat in a restaurant the other night and listened to two men at the next table. One was very obviously an Englishman and the other was a New York stock racketeer whom I have known for years. Both men were talking loudly, and both were expertly plastered.

In all my life I have never heard two grown men talk such complete nonsense. The American knew the United States only from a dubious angle and understood nothing whatsoever about England. The Englishman, on the other hand, seemed to be very familiar with the English labor situation, but he was totally lost in his statements about the United States.

These things seemingly had no effect on the general argument. The two men pounded the table, shook fingers under one another's nose, drank their brandy and went on and on with the nonsensical discussion. I only wish that I had been able to make a record of that conversation. It would have reminded me so much of our Congressional Record.

I'm glad I was there, however, for it brought to my mind one of the best stories I have ever heard. The yarn concerns Irvin S. Cobb, the humorist, and it took place on one of the large ocean liners some three years ago. The boat was sailing under the British flag, and Irvin was asked to act as master of ceremonies in a benefit to be staged aboard the ship.

As every traveler knows, this benefit gag is worked overtime on the ocean just as frequently as it is on land. This show, however, was to be staged for some particular class of British orphans. And when the committee approached Cobb and asked him to play the leading role he couldn't very well refuse.

The subscription list was passed among the passengers and they were asked to contribute. When the list was completed it was handed to Cobb. Irvin took one look at the report and burned up.

For he discovered that Mr. Henry Smith, of Ohio, had given $100 to the cause while Lord Ephringbacon had munificently put himself down for $2. George Goldberg, of New York, had subscribed $50, while the Duke of Mittmekid had offered $1. And so it went all the way down the line.

Until the concert had reached the final moments, however, Cobb said nothing about the situation. He had introduced the various numbers as though he were not at all angry about the situation. Things went very smoothly and the passengers laughed often and loudly as the humorist introduced each act with another witticism.

Finally, when the show was over, he arose.

"Ladies and gentlemen," he said. "I have been only too happy to work in this noble cause of providing additional funds for British orphans. It has been a great pleasure for me and I hope you have enjoyed the entertainment.

"America and England are closer today than they have ever been before. Talk of trouble between these two great nations is sheer nonsense. We are co-operating more smoothly these days than at any time in our histories."

Applause from the gathering rang out generously. Cobb slowly picked up the subscription list and held it aloft.

"I have been looking over this list," he continued, "and I find that it contains plenty of evidence of American and British co-operation. Even in such a minor matter as a collection for British orphans I discover the utmost co-operation.

"The Americans supply the money and the British supply the orphans!" . . .

VARIETY TELLS the story of two vaudeville performers who were approached by an agent's messenger and offered an engagement at a low salary. They threw the messenger out on his ear. A day later the agent personally wired the actors and offered them the same terms.

Some two hours later the reply came in via telegraph. It read:

"Your insulting wire at hand, with its ridiculous offer. We acept." . . .

* * *

AN ACTRESS, who has had a rather tough time getting an engagement, recently prevailed upon her sweetie to back her in a play. The sweetie, who is plenty coo-coo about her, agreed to finance her. He billed her like a circus and the actress opened on Broadway. The only trouble with the engagement was that no customers showed up.

To keep her happy, however, the sweetie packed the theater with passes and would not close the show. The actress, playing to crowded houses was happy in her success and never doubted that the boxoffice was overflowing with incoming dough.

The other night, while emerging from a night club, the actress noted the carriage starter handing out tickets to the cab drivers along the line. Curious, she asked what they were.

"Aw," responded the starter, "some dopey broad is givin' a show around the corner from here. Some guy—I guess it's her sweetie—was around this evening and asked me to hand out some tickets. You want some, lady?"

The actress took a quick look at one of the tickets and almost fell to the ground when she discovered it was for her own show! . . .

A FARMER from Minnesota checked into the Hotel McAlpin the other night and informed the room clerk in a jovial manner that he was on his way back to his native Sweden. Although it meant less than nothing to the clerk, he listened politely as the farmer told him all about his family and the sweil boat on which he was sailing the following afternoon.

A bellhop was summoned and escorted the farmer to a room. Before he left, the boy took one of those "Please Do Not Disturb" signs from a bureau and tossed it carelessly on the bed.

So the poor hick slept in a chair all night! . . .

AMONG OTHER contributed stuff that you might find amusing is a story about a Scotch traveling salesman who was held up in the Orkney Islands by a bad storm. As soon as he could establish connections, he sent the following wire to his firm in Aberdeen:

"Marooned here by terrific storm. Wire instructions."

Shortly after he received a reply from his firm. It read:

"Start summer vacation as from yesterday!" . . .

"YOU CAN take it from me, Mark," wires Al Schwartz, "things are so bad now that plenty of people are looking for the guy who offers you a penny for your thoughts!" . . .

Marshall, Edna Best To Be Starred

Herbert Marshall and Edna Best, famous English couple on the American stage today, will shortly be seen co-starred on the screen, according to Sono Art-World Wide, who announce the acquisition of rights to the British production, "Bachelor's Folly."

Based on Edgar Wallace's successful stage play, "The Calendar," the picture was released in England under its original title and acclaimed by the British press.

After that a needed vacation, the blessed event, a few months of real motherhood and back to work.

Here's Some Hot News From Movieland

Flaubert may now turn over in his grave. Allied Pictures are changing the name of his Madame Bovary to Innocent. As was generally expected, Colleen Moore has signed a five-year contract with M G M. The first option does not come up for a year. Ann-yne Claire, Mrs. Ernie Westmore and Mrs. David Butler are soon in the hospital, recovering from appendicitis operations. Joan Blondell will wear a wig in her Paramount picture. Several weeks ago she dyed her own hair brown. In the emergency, the studio called in Percy Westmore, who also designed Jean Harlow's red wig for "Red Headed Woman."

Ricardo Cortez, who has saved most of his pennies and some of his dimes as well, just bought a Kentucky thoroughbred. "Little Joe" by name. "Joe" if you're interested, was sired by "Ought to be King" out of "Miss Fay." Since "Little Joe" is a crapshooter's term, and Ric is no crapshooter, he hastens to explain that the naming was none of his business.

'Skyscraper Souls' Leads Assigned

Maureen O'Sullivan and Norman Foster have been given the leading roles in "Skyscraper Souls." Miss O'Sullivan was last seen opposite Johnny Weismuller in "Tarzan the Ape Man," while Norman Foster has appeared in several pictures since going out to Hollywood from the New York stage.

Meeting May Disclose Roosevelt Strength

By MARK SHIELDS

Mr. Shields

At tomorrow's meeting of the Democratic State Committee in Harrisburg there will be some conclussons as to how many delegate votes Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, of New York, will get from Pennsylvania though this subject will not come up directly.

It is inevitable, however, that delegates will be somewhat influenced by the results of the fight for party control in the state. This battle revolves about John Collins, incumbent, seeking re-election as state chairman, opposed by Warren Van Dyke and Sedgwick Kistler who wishes to continue as national committeeman, an ambition to be contested by Joseph F. Guffey, of Pittsburgh.

Van Dyke and Guffey make up the Roosevelt wing. Collins and Kistler the so-called Smith leadership.

Until now it has been impossible to ascertain with any accuracy just how the delegates from Pennsylvania were divided in the primary election. How far implied obligations are effective, whether the preference vote in various districts binds the delegates and the disinclination of a few others to flatly state their choice all have entered into the perplexity.

* * *

Collins and Van Dyke Confident of Majority

The Smith people contend Roosevelt has not more than 46 of Pennsylvania's 76 delegates. Van Dyke and Guffey say this estimate is far too small. If Van Dyke and Guffey succeed in unhorsing Collins and Kistler as state party heads the result is certain to influence some undecided delegates, and they will go to Roosevelt. The reverse will be true if the present chiefs retain power.

Both Collins and Van Dyke in advance claims are confident of a majority of the 113 members of the state committee. An impartial tally is impossible at this time, because many of the delegates are not disclosing the preference they will exhibit when they vote tomorrow. Van Dyke will be favored by Allegheny County, County Chairman David L. Lawrence being affiliated with Guffey.

At the outside, not more than three of the 10 committeemen from here will be for Collins and it is possible the group will be unanimous for Van Dyke.

Smith carried more congressional districts than Roosevelt in the primary in Allegheny County, but Lawrence scored an easy victory in his county chairmanship contest against Malcolm McDonald and also mopped up in the fight for committeemen.

Talbot for Speaker Boom Premature

At the Philadelphia meeting of the Republican State Committee there was discussion of the speakership of the next House among members of the Legislature present. They recalled that a short time ago a premature boom had been loosed for Representative Grover Talbot, of Delaware County, author of the Talbot bill passed at the last special session.

But they learned that the boom did not have the support of Delaware County, including the leader there, Senator John J. McClure. The latter was not even present in Philadelphia when the Talbot candidacy was broached. State Chairman Edward Martin repudiated it the afternoon of the morning on which the story appeared, though it seems that Martin had been well aware such a story was to be printed, and made no prior effort to disavow it. Indeed, it was reported that Martin had given the proposal some impetus.

But some Delaware countians came to the front with the explanation that Talbot, though recognized as an influential member of the House, had little to do with the preparation of the bill which bears his name. Intimations were given that it was the product of Representative Ellwood Turner, of Delaware, anti-Pinchot floor leader in the House last year, and John Fertig, chief of the Legislative Reference Bureau.

* * *

Advisability of Extra Session Conceded

There are few men connected with the state government, whether Pinchot or anti-Pinchot, who do not concede the advisability of an extra session of the Legislature. Some would have legislation only to provide sufficient revenue to prevent curtailment of present state services. Others, responsive to the warnings of economists and welfare leaders, would enact greater appropriations for relief in the present emergency.

Yet no one does anything.

The Republican State Committee refused absolutely to consider indorsement of an extra session, with a request that the Governor issue the call. Mr. Pinchot wishes to be invited, and last week Philadelphia City Council considered a resolution calling for a special session, but sidetracked it in a critical debate about the Governor.

Judge James B. Drew, of the Supreme Court, was in Philadelphia at the State Committee meeting and had a special session resolution. He asked different committeemen to introduce it, but all declined, apparently in deference to the state organization. Judge Drew was assumed to be acting with the approval of Mr. Pinchot.

Meanwhile, there is not only danger that additional relief will be denied, but that present means of state assistance will be restricted, and that construction projects, providing employment, will be cancelled.

DEPLORES U. S. FAILURE TO ACT IN CRISIS

National Leader Attending Islam Grotto Meet Here Holds Job Bonds Vital

Pointing out that the United States is as rich as ever, and has as much money as ever, Charles E. Minsinger, of Portland, Ore., national head of the Enchanted Realm of the Veiled Prophet, of which Islam Grotto is the local unit, today indorsed the prosperity loan.

Stressing the loan as a means of circulating money, by its program of constructing needed public works, Minsinger deplored the inactivity of the nation to meet the crisis. He said:

"There is just as much of everything in this country as there ever was. Certainly there is as much money.

HOLDS NATION RICH

"All the millions of men must have work, and all the country needs is to get the money circulated.

"I am absolutely in favor of the $5,000,000,000 prosperity loan. We cannot sit by and watch. We have to do something to keep money moving. I hope Congress will do this. We are rich—we have food, minerals, money, everything in plenty. All it needs is distribution."

Grand Monarch Minsinger was in Pittsburgh, visiting friends and attending a meeting of Islam Grotto.

FUNDS NEARLY GONE

Meanwhile a number of prominent organizations were preparing to discuss formally the bond issue, in the realization that some action must be taken to meet the unemployment problem — involving approximately 190,000 idle wage-earners in Allegheny County and over 1,000,000 in Pennsylvania.

Also confronting the groups is the problem of facing the exhaustion of private funds by August 20, and all existing public funds as well. After August the city will have one alternative—issuing the bonds passed at the primary election as a last resort, and in the county, added taxation by the School Board.

PENNA. BANKERS HEAR PLEA FOR CHARTER BANS

Sharon Financier Would Eliminate All Smaller Institutions; Sessions Open

A plea for a restriction on the number of charters for banks and an increase in the capital required, made by H. B. McDowell, vice president of the McDowell National Bank, Sharon, Pa., was contained in the outstanding address at today's session of the Pennsylvania Bankers Association here.

McDowell declared:

"There should be a restriction on the number of charters that can be issued. The capital stock required should be increased so as to eliminate entirely the small banks.

"If the same fundamental principles were the basic law of both the Federal and State banking departments, a uniformity could be had which would be of value in strengthening a unit system of banks."

WELCOMED BY CHAPLIN

Following the formal address of welcome by James C. Chaplin, president of the Colonial Trust Company of Pittsburgh, the annual address of the president was delivered by Clark Hammond, vice president of the Keystone National Bank of Pittsburgh.

Hammond, vice president of the organization, read the address of John W. Chalfant, president, who is ill.

In his written address, Mr. Chalfant said:

"It is true that emergency legislation at Washington, embodied in the National Credit Corporation act, the Glass-Steagall act and the Reconstruction Finance Corporation act, has been of tremendous assistance. On the other hand, the fact that certain influences at Washington are bent upon such radical revision in our banking and economic system as indicated in the Glass bill, the Steagall Bank Guaranty bill and the Goldsborough bill is prolonging and even accentuating the disturbed sensibilities which everyone in America has experienced with extraordinary keenness."

GORDON'S VIEWS

Bankers have a golden opportunity to insure firm foundations for financial institutions in the future by effecting changes in managerial policies and lending assistance to the enactment of remedial legislation, Dr. William D. Gordon, secretary of banking, said.

Among the changes recommended in the banking laws were the prohibition of purchases of stocks by banks, more stringent requirements on the purchase of bonds, closer control of purchases of mortgages, limits on individual loans to a given percentage of capital and surplus, limitation on the ownership of real estate to the absolute essentials and increased requirements for capital to establish state banks.

Carnegie Institute Opens Exhibit Of 52 Paintings by Pittsburghers

MALCOM PARCELL'S "THE LOG SPLITTER" . . IN PITTSBURGH ARTISTS' EXHIBIT OPENING TODAY AT CARNEGIE GALLERIES

Many Local Scenes Displayed by 18 Artists

By PENELOPE REDD

Fifty-two paintings by 18 Pittsburgh painters are today presented as an exhibition at Carnegie Institute to continue on view through June 19.

Miss Redd

Led alphabetically by Edmund M. Ashe, his group of paintings, which isolate and emphasize the pictorial quality of our native waterways, establishes the keynote of the exhibition as refreshing and sincere.

"Anna Maria," by Marcella Comes, is an especially ingratiating study in white. Raymond Baxter Dowden, in "Summer Swing," renders an eerie impression of tenuous children at play. In Esther Topp Edmond's "Hardanger," a hamlet trustfully reposes in a cradle of Norwegian mountains.

INSTITUTE STAIRCASE

Sam Filner in his poker and dice games paints fiercely the universal challenge of chance. Johanna K. W. Hailman's "September" is a portrait of her own well-groomed terrace and garden. Roy Hilton sees the grand staircase of Carnegie Institute in "Interior" as a problem in pictorial organization.

John Kane particularizes Pittsburgh and his own street in "Scene from My Studio," but incorporates the celestial ambitions of the city's skyscrapers as a proud background.

Malcolm Parcell dignifies "Diggs," the cook at his country studio, as he contemplates the Washington County hills from his oak settle throne. Louise Pershing is fey in her "Woman with Witch Ball." T. Carl Whitmer's friends should find much to admire in her portrait of him.

'SUNDAY DIVERSION'

Milan Petrovits has "Sunday Diversion" as another of his ably painted genre studies of his family. Esther Phillips emerges from her sometimes rather vague chrysallis to be not only original but explicit in her splendid "Mellon Institute."

Elizabeth Robb romanticizes "Meveradale" in a veil of snow. Samuel Rosenberg has an excellent "Portrait" of a young man painted with vigor.

William R. Shulgold's subdued but impressive "Evelina" is reticently beautiful.

Raymond Simboli shows the uncompromising geometric steel forms so characteristic of Pittsburg in "Twenty-second Street Bridge." Christian J. Walter chants the opposite in his gentle and decorative "Spring." Everett Warner shows up city life in "East Liberty." Mr. Warner has as his protagonist an engine roaring past miscellaneous buildings whose unorganized huddle makes the railroad heroic as organized power.

Every citizen should visit this show to acquaint himself with art as local painters practice it in this busy town.

Held for Trial in 2 Swissvale Robberies

Joseph Williams, 22, of 534 North Braddock avenue, Braddock, was held for court last night following a hearing before Justice of the Peace S. H. Wilson, of Swissvale. Williams was arrested Saturday, charged with the robbery of two Swissvale chain stores.

Mrs. Mabel Murray, mother of the youth, had her son arrested last year, police said, when she learned that he planned to join a bandit gang. Upon promising to reform, Williams was given a two-year parole.

Volpe, Two Pals May Ask New Rum Case Trial

Louis Volpe, 29, member of a politically powerful Wilmerding family, and Alfredo Corleto and William Wallace, convicted yesterday in Federal Court of violating the prohibition law, have four days in which to file motions for a new trial, which action was indicated by defense counsel. The trial was before Judge R. M. Gibson. The jury deliberated an hour and 15 minutes.

B. J. Jackson, a Negro, prohibition agent, testified he purchased whisky from Volpe, Corleto and Wallace at a confectionery store at Patton and Middle streets, Wilmerding. The charge was denied on the witness stand by all the defendants. Volpe said he has not sold liquor since he pleaded guilty five years ago to a dry law charge. The jury found Volpe guilty on four counts, Wallace on three counts and Corleto on two.

Jackson testified that on September 28 he paid Volpe $16 for a five-gallon can of whisky, which, he said, was placed in a truck by Wallace on instructions from Volpe. Two special agents of the Department of Justice, Bureau of Prohibition, testified they were secreted behind a specially constructed partition in the truck and, through peep-holes, saw Wallace place the liquor on it.

The government was represented by Assistant United States Attorney Raymond D. Evans and the defendants by Attorneys Edward Coll and John S. Pyle.

Order Traffic Light At Safety Platform

Because of numerous accidents at the safety platform at Capital and West Liberty avenues, Council, in committee session, yesterday, on the motion of P. J. McArdle, authorized the Bureau of Traffic Planning to install a stop and go light at the point. Emma Curran, who lives in the vicinity, complained against the maintenance of the safety platform.

MAYOR TO FACE SINGLE COUNT IF RETRIED

Butler Jury's Verdict Disposed of All Other Charges Against City Head

The defense's first move to block the verdicts against Mayor Charles H. Kline and Bertram L. Succop, former supplies director, found guilty of malfeasance, was taken when formal motions to set aside the verdicts and for a new trial were filed in the Butler County Court. Attorney Charles B. Prichard announced today.

The motions, merely asking for retrial and arrest of judgment, without setting forth reasons, were filed yesterday by former Judge James M. Galbreath, of the defense staff of counsel.

30 DAYS' GRACE

Judge Thomas D. Finletter, of Philadelphia, who presided at the trial, allowed 30 days for the filing of reasons. The place and time of arguments will be fixed later.

If the Mayor is granted a retrial, he will be tried only on the one count on which he was convicted Saturday, it was revealed today.

The other 47 counts in the indictment have been disposed of permanently, the jury having acquitted the Mayor on these points.

The impression existed in some quarters that the Mayor would have to stand trial on all the counts in the two indictments.

PAYMENT DELAYED

In view of the outcome of the Butler trial, Council delayed approving payment of $866 to the Craig Electric Company for extra work at Mayview. Council authorized payment, subject, however, to approval of the law department.

President John S. Herron, of Council, said:

"I think we had better move slowly on making such authorization."

Councilman Garland then moved the matter be referred to the law department.

The question of the legality of the city's check signing machine may be settled on Monday, when an ordinance is to be presented by Controller James P. Kerr, asking that Council designate his office as the place of operation of the machine.

Uncertainty over the legality of the check-signer today created a possibility that pay checks for some city employes might be late. However, Deputy Controller John Schilpp, Jr., was hopeful today there would be no such delay. These checks are for employes in the three city hospitals, the Recreation Bureau and City Properties office.

CERTIFICATES DEMANDED

Controller Kerr yesterday revealed that the Mayor has demanded hereafter all warrants for supplies must be preceded by a certificate from the Controller showing the goods have been received and comply with contract specifications.

The count on which the Mayor was held guilty charged that he had signed a warrant for $5,000 to Henry Braun for trucks before the trucks were delivered. The Controller stated while the legality of the check-signing machine is in doubt it will not be used. He said he wishes to be on the safe side in signing his name to checks in payment of bills.

At the time the machine was installed, Kerr said the City Solicitor advised it as a perfectly proper procedure.

HIGH STUDENTS FINGER-PRINTED

MISS S. MAXWELL, IRWIN BERMAN, MISS E. CLEMENSON
'BERTILLION OPERATOR' BERMAN FINGERPRINTING IN SCHOOL

Police Lieutenant's Son Makes Hobby Of Whorls

Finger prints of 100 Schenley High School students have been taken but not for the Bertillon records—the prints are in the files of Irwin Berman, 17, son of Lieut. Paul Berman, of Carrick Police Station.

Making and filing finger-prints just as they do in the police bureau, is merely Berman's hobby. All he uses is an ordinary stamp pad and a piece of white paper. The subject places his fingers one at a time on the pad and then on the paper in making the finger prints.

After the prints are made the youthful finger-print expert studies them under a magnifying glass. Every finger whorl is closely examined and its characteristics noted.

Explaining why he picked finger-printing as his hobby, Berman said:

"I wanted a hobby that would be different from any others. Dad is a lieutenant of police in Carrick, so finger-printing was naturally my choice. I want to study law and it may be of some use in the legal profession."

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., May 18

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Ain't time Gov. "Prairie Hay" Bill Murray gets in an argument with the federal government over what a state can do with its own products you can bet "Bill" will win. He knows more about state rights than any man in the country.

Will Rogers

Just going out now with our popular Gov. Rolph to accept the gift to the state of California of the biggest Arabian horse ranch in the world, given by Mr. Kellogg, of Battle Creek. The Governor knows good breakfast food and I know good horses. I don't want to detract from what may be mighty fine morning "fodder," but I am a ham and egg man myself.

Yours, WILL.

MACKRELL SEES PERIL TO G. O. P. IN DRY STAND

Fears for November Cited In Radio Talk If Party Fails to Demand Repeal

By MARK SHIELDS

Register of Wills Joseph N. Mackrell, a delegate to the Republican National Convention from Pittsburgh, in a radio speech last night warned his party that if it refuses to declare for prohibition repeal "I can see nothing else but that the Republican party is in grave danger of being smothered at the presidential election in November."

Mackrell was on the radio as one of the speakers in "prohibition repeal week," being celebrated throughout the country. His address was built about his futile effort last Saturday before the caucus of Pennsylvania Republican national delegates to have Pennsylvania's member of the Resolutions Committee at Chicago instructed to insist upon a repeal plank in the national platform.

REVEALS NOTE TO REED

Today Mackrell made public a letter he has sent to Senator David A. Reed, named to the Resolutions Committee, as well as chairman of a group of delegates to which such proposals as Mackrell's were referred Saturday, in which he asks that he be notified of the meeting of the committee and be given an opportunity to appear in support of his anti-dry resolution.

Mackrell's radio speech, together with his letter to Reed, make it certain that the Pennsylvania delegation at Chicago will be compelled to take a direct stand on prohibition, refused last Saturday. Over the air he went much farther in his warning than has any Pennsylvanian who has discussed prohibition as a national issue. He said:

ELECTED AS DRY FOE

"It is quite consistent with my thought and action for me to be on this program, because I was elected a delegate to the Republican National Convention in the Thirty-third Congressional District with repeal of the prohibition amendment and modification of the Volstead act, pending that appeal, as my principal argument for support.

"That makes my position as one having a direct expression from his constituency, a mandate that I vote and work for repeal. I have already consummated a part of that obligation, because last Saturday in Philadelphia before a caucus of the Republican delegates and alternates to the national convention I introduced a resolution to the effect that the Republican member of the Resolutions Committee from Pennsylvania be instructed to work for a plank on repeal and modification in the Republican national platform.

"Some say my resolution was smothered last Saturday in Philadelphia. I am not ready to admit that, but if such is the case, and if it is again smothered in Chicago, I can see nothing else but that the Republican party is in grave danger of being smothered at the presidential election in November.

CITES PRIMARY VOTES

"There are features incident to the regime prior to the enactment of the Eighteenth Amendment that I could not tolerate and would not countenance, but there are features going hand-in-hand with present conditions under the amendment that I think strike at the very foundation of our national existence and cause many to fear that law and order are tottering.

"The Literary Digest poll shows an overwhelming preponderous for repeal. One state after another in its primary election has corroborated the vote that the magazine previously had announced.

"I have no hesitancy in asking my listeners and friends to support the thought that I am advocating, and, to be somewhat practical, to request them to speak to their delegates to the national convention to support my resolution when it is again considered at the Pennsylvania caucus in Chicago."

County to Push Safety Measures

Elimination of the Allegheny County highway department's sign and safety division will not reduce activities for safety measures, C. H. Roth, secretary of the Pittsburgh Motor Club, announced today as a result of a hearing with County Commissioner C. C. McGovern. The motor club officials were assured a more extensive program will be followed for the elimination of dangerous curves and furtherance of highway safety, Roth said.

TELL IT TO SALLY -:- -:- Follow This Unusual Feature Day by Day -:- -:- By SALLY MARTIN

Is Your First Duty to Your Husband or Mother?

She was a home-loving girl, but it wasn't her own home she loved. It was [illegible]'s.

So, every now and then, she would run out on Mister Husband and go home for a month or so.

And now? Well, now the worm has turned. The big boy has tired of being an also-ran in her life, and has served notice on her that unless she cuts it out it's curtains on their partnership.

"I [illegible] what I'm to do!" she sobs. "I love Mama. I've always lived her so. And now that I've come from home she is [illegible] I think he's mean.

Do you think so?

Dear [illegible]:

My husband and I are breaking up, and I do hope that you can help me mend it.

You see, the trouble is between my husband and my mother. No one mother has ever interfered in any way with him or with our marriage, and we wouldn't think of doing such a thing. She is an angel. But this is the trouble:

Not long after I married my father died, and my sister moved away to a distant city where her husband was transferred by the company he works for, so that left no one to ever be with mother but me.

I have been married now for three years, and during that time I have tried to spend a few weeks at a time with her every month or so. She lives in another town, not far away, so that when I go to see her, of course I have to leave my husband alone.

I always was a home-loving girl, even before I married, and I loved my mother dearly, so I just can't bear to be away from home and her for very long, especially when she has no one and gets so blue when I am not with her.

HUBBY OBJECTS

But now my visits to her have caused a great deal of hard feeling between my husband and myself. He has even gone so far as to tell me that if I don't stop going away and staying as I have been doing, he will let me go for good.

He has even got sarcastic and said that if I "love my home so much he will step out and not interfere with my staying there. And of course he doesn't [illegible] out here. He means my home that was always so dear to me.

I just can't understand him. It seems to me that he might try to understand, but he just gets huffier when the subject comes up.

It seems to me so mean. He knows his mother is alone and old. He is young and strong, and it seems to me he might make allowances. What do you think? If it weren't for mother I don't know what I would do. She is so sympathetic. What shall I do? Shall I submit to his orders or not? Help me.

DORA

SHRIKING DUTIES

What do I think, Dora? I think you're a very silly young-ster and not much of a wife. Hard words. Maybe. But they are true words, my dear.

For when you married you took on new responsibilities. You became a family yourself. And you haven't any right now to duck those responsibilities or break up the family you created. And that's exactly what you're doing. You're letting your husband down, and I don't blame him for being peeved.

But mamma needs me! you wail.

All right. Maybe she does. Maybe she is lonesome. But that isn't up to you, kiddo. If she hasn't made any friends that is not your fault, and it is up to her to find some new interests to fill her life and let you go about yours.

And as a matter of fact her "needing" you is not the real reason that you run out on your own home and run back to hers.

You do it because you haven't grown up and cut loose from her apron strings yet.

And you'd better do that pronto if you don't want to pick yourself a record crop of misery youngsters.

Nancy Ann Miller Happy With Her Hindu Husband, Avers Fay King

THE FORMER MAHARAJAH OF INDORE ALREADY HAD A SENIOR AND JUNIOR WIFES, AND A NUMEROUS FAMILY FROM THESE UNIONS
NANCY MILLER WHO HAS REJOINED HER HUSBAND, THE FORMER MAHARAJAH OF INDORE, AND HER TWO LITTLE DAUGHTERS AT BOMBAY, INDIA
ELSIE THOMPSON AN AUSTRALIAN GIRL LIKE NANCY MILLER, WAS CONVERTED TO HINDUISM AND MARRIED THE MAHARAJAH OF TIKARA
FAY KING

By FAY KING

Nancy Ann Miller recently visited her relatives in Seattle. She has now rejoined her husband, the former Maharajah of Indore, and her two little daughters, at Bombay, India.

They spend most of their time in Paris. She looked well and happy, and, from all reports, has not regretted her marriage.

But one is reminded of Elsie Thompson, an Australian girl, who also was converted to Hinduism, took the name Sita Devi and married the Maharajah of Tikara in 1919. In March, 1928, she was suing her husband in London for maintenance.

He then contended that, according to Hindu law, being a Christian woman, she could not by her alleged conversion become a Hindu, and no lawful marriage could have been possible between them.

Making a Small Slam at Hearts

Ernest Berholt offered the following problem by Bedouin. Cards are all to be played face up. Hearts are trumps. The opening lead is the Q of clubs. How can a small slam be made against any subsequent play by A-B?

Dummy captures the Q of clubs with the Ace. B's 6 and Z's 3 fall. If Y's top heart is led the small slam cannot be made against perfect defense, because Y will lose the power to hold the lead of Trick 5 so as to continue with the Ace of spades. Dummy must lead the 2 of heart's. B will play low. Z's will win. A's 3 will fall.

Trick 3 will consist of the Q of spades. A's 4, Y's 2 and B's 5. A cannot gain by covering the lead with his K. The fourth lead must be Z's last spade, upon which A's 7, Y's 9 and B's 6 must go. The fifth lead is Y's 10 of hearts. B's best play is the 6 (note under variation what will happen if B covers with his K). Z must play his 8 (if he plays his lowest heart, at Trick 8 B can defeat Z's plans by playing his K under Z's Ace). A's 9 falls. Trick 6 consists of Y's lead of the Ace of spades, B's 8, Z's discard of the J of diamonds, and A's 10 of spades drops. Trick 7 is the lead of Y's 9 of diamonds drawing B's Q if B refuses to cover. Z discards a club, then continues with Y's 10 of diamonds. Z must be careful to trump with the Q. A's 7 falls.

At Trick 8 Z lays down his Ace of hearts. A's 2 of clubs is discarded. Y's 3 of diamonds is discarded, and B follows suit with either his 7 of hearts or his K. On the ninth trick Z's 4 of hearts puts B in the lead. A discards the 8 of clubs, and dummy's 5 of diamonds is discarded.

Having left only the K-6-4-2 of diamonds, B must lead a diamond up to Y's A-10. It does not matter what B leads. Y will win two diamond tricks, and Z will obtain two club discards. A will follow suit on the diamond led by B at trick 10, but when Y lays down his good diamond at Trick 11, A either must unguard his Q of clubs or let go his top spade. In the first instance Y's 4 of clubs will be led, and Tricas 12 and 13 will be won by Z's K-9. In the second instance Y's J of spades will win Trick 12, and Z's K of clubs must win the last trick. In either event Z will fulfill a small slam attempt.

The first variation in play that it will pay B to attempt will be at Trick 5, where he may cover dummy's 10 of hearts with his K, forcing Z to win with the Ace. Play must then proceed as follows: Trick 6, lay down the 8 of hearts, capturing B's 6, while A discards the 2 of clubs and Y lets go the 3 of diamonds. Trick 7 will consist of Z's Q of hearts and B's last heart. A will discard the 7 of diamonds and dummy will discard the 5 of that suit. Trick 8 will start with Z's last heart, the players in rotation will discard diamonds, as follows: 8, 9 and 2. In case Z leads his J of diamonds before laying down his last heart, B must refuse to take the trick and Z will then have to lose two club tricks to A. Trick 9 must start with the lead of Z's J of diamonds. Y may pass the trick, in which case Z will give A one club trick only, or Y may win with the Ace of diamonds and put A in at Trick 11, with a club, when he cannot win a second trick. In no way can A-B prevent a small slam.

Will Stay Straight

If you live on a street where trolleys pass your door it is hard to keep the pictures hanging straight on your walls. Try this method: Put the cord over the hook so that the picture faces the wall but is quite straight. Then turn it over to the right side. The loop formed will prevent the cord from slipping.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Table Linen

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you please advise me how to hem my table linen? Should I remove the selvedge on the napkins and hem, or just turn the selvedge in and hem? I have seen napkins that were hemmed only on two sides. Is that correct?

I have a table set that I think is very lovely and I want it hemmed correctly. V.

It is not customary to remove the selvedge from the cloth or from the napkins before we hem them. The table cloth should be French-hemmed, with the hem three-eighths of an inch to one-half an inch wide. The napkins, too, should be French-hemmed, with the hems of from one-eighth of an inch to one-quarter of an inch wide.

Informal Service

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. A girl and her young man friend are invited to a friend's home and when the sandwiches, cake, sugar and so forth are being passed, should the young man see that everyone is served before himself, including the host and hostesses, or should he help himself as his turn comes?

2. A girl and boy friend are on a crowded street car. The girl is sitting on outside of double seat. The person on the inside gets off. The girl moves over and then is sitting on the inside of the double seat. Should the young man sit next to the girl, or let some girl who is standing have the seat? S.

1. The courtly young man at such a party will ask for the privilege of assisting at the serving of refreshments, and if the hostess and host are not also assisting (which I should think that they would be), he would include the hostess in his serving, but the host, I should think, would insist that the guest serve himself and then he, the host, would serve himself. It would seem distinctly ungracious for both the hostess and the host to remain inactive about the service and allow the guest to do it all.

The moment that the young man sees that the hostess is beginning to pass, say, the plates for the services, if it is to be buffet, or to set up the table for refreshments, if they are to eat at the table, he would rise and offer to help her. So would the host, naturally.

2. Again if the young man is gallant and polite, he will let the girl who is standing have his seat.

Household Hints

To improve boiled bacon, add a teaspoonful of vinegar, two cloves and a little powdered nutmeg to the water.

When stove brushes become greasy, plunge them into hot soda water; stir them round with a stick and hang them to dry outside.

Epsom salts dissolved in cold water and applied evenly will give a good imitation of frosted glass. Allow three tablespoonfuls to one pint of water.

Before boiling rice, care should be taken to wash it thoroughly in cold water, otherwise the rice will show a tendency to stick to the pan and burn. See that the water is boiling before placing rice in the pan.

How to Keep Well

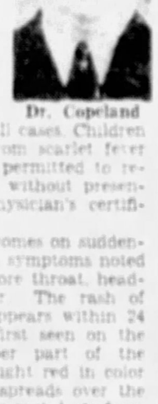
Even Mild Cases of Scarlet Fever Are Very Contagious



Dr. Copeland

There has been an alarming increase in the number of cases of scarlet fever reported from all over the country within the past few months. Fortunately, most of the cases were of a mild form.

Scarlet fever is a highly contagious disease. It is often neglected and in this way is quickly spread from one child to another. Quarantine is necessary for all cases. Children who recover from scarlet fever should not be permitted to return to school without presentation of a physician's certificate.

The disease comes on suddenly and the first symptoms noted are vomiting, sore throat, headache and fever. The rash of scarlet fever appears within 24 hours and is first seen on the neck and upper part of the chest. It is bright red in color and gradually spreads over the entire body. The rash lasts from three to 10 days and then fades. After this the skin peels in scales or large pieces, producing what is called desquamation.

Mild cases of scarlet fever require little treatment besides rest in bed and isolation, but please bear in mind that mild cases are quite as contagious as severe cases. Though the treatment of scarlet fever in the mild form is simple, the disease should never be neglected or its importance underestimated. Often the heart and kidneys become involved even in mild forms of scarlet fever, simply because the disease is not treated and the diet and amount of exercise are not limited.

Scarlet fever is dangerous because of the frequent complications that occur in this disease. The heart, kidneys, ears and glands may become involved in the severe forms of this disease. When the fever is high, special medications and careful nursing are of the utmost importance.

Large quantities of water should be taken. It may be given in the form of lemonade or orangeade. Liquid foods, such as milk are best tolerated in the beginning of the disease. Later cereals and broths may be added to the diet. Daily elimination is important, and where necessary, enemas should be given.

When the fever has subsided and desquamation has taken place, sponge baths containing bicarbonate of soda are beneficial and relieve the itching. The quarantine should not be lifted until desquamation is completed and there are no abnormal discharges from the mouth, nose or ears.

Considerable research work is being done to find an injection which will give immunization, or protection, against scarlet fever. Similar to the "Schick test" in diphtheria, the "Dick test" determines whether or not an individual is susceptible to scarlet fever. If your child has not received this test, consult with your physician or the local board of health.

HOW THE ENGLISH REDUCE 6 OR 7 POUNDS WEEKLY

Yet Eat, Drink All They Want

Recently Brought Here from England, the Andrews Method of Quick Fat Reduction Enables Overweight People to Lose 6 or More Pounds a Week Without Starvation or Weakening Exercises.

It seems that the British have found a way to rip off excess fat that's the dream of every too-fat person. That is, to rip it off without starving, without tiring exercise.

Under an extraordinarily simple and pleasant regimen discovered there, the average fat person loses as much as six to ten pounds weekly; yet suffers no pangs of hunger, no aching muscles, no weakness or depression. Returning travelers from Europe talked so much about it, that it has now been brought to this country. Anyone can follow it; so if you want to get thin, here's your chance.

Eat, Sleep, Drink and Grow Thin, Doing Only This

All the method involves is a glass of water before breakfast—to clear the intestines and tone the system—and a few minor changes in your diet.

Here is what you do: Tear this article out and save it, so you won't forget.

Before Breakfast: Drink an ordinary tumbler full of cool water to which you've added a teaspoon of effervescent salt. (Get the brand named "Andrews" at any drug store.) This to eliminate the usual curse of fat people: accumulated poisons and bloat. Also to cut the moisture weight of your body—sometimes as much as three pounds in one day.

At Meals: Cut out ONLY fat meats. Eat your usual quantity of lean meats and ADD a double-supply of green vegetables...spinach, cabbage, fresh peas, lettuce, etc. Then for dessert, shift from pastry and pies to FRESH FRUIT. The more you eat of these the better. They're super-nourishing vitamin foods.

Drink, too, if you like them, sauerkraut juice, tomato juice or orange juice "cocktails" before lunch and supper. Eat fresh fruit, too, before bed if you like to eat before retiring.

That's all you do. No wonder England and all of Europe is cheering this discovery. You lose weight day by day, week by week...usually from six or seven pounds weekly to even as much as ten pounds, and feel amazingly more alert and active while you are. Doctors of world knowledge widely endorse this way. The salt tones and clears the system. The vitamin foods take the place of those that build weight and fat, and thus fat goes like magic.

Embark on the Great Adventure of getting thin today. Ask your doctor about this if you wish to be doubly sure this is the simplest, safest way to lose embarrassing bulk. You can get Andrews Effervescent Salt at any drug store for a few cents.

EVENING SUN-TELEGRAPH MARKETS

Stocks Fluctuate — Stocks Drag Here

STOCK MARKET EASES, RISES, DECLINES

U. S. Steel, General Motors And General Electric Remain Fairly Steady

NEW YORK, May 18.—(AP.)—The stock market remained hesitant today, failing to venture far in either direction.

The list eased off in the early dealings, firmed up later in the morning, and again showed easing tendencies in the early afternoon. Scattered selling continued in isolated issues. Traders looking for any rally on American Telephone's ordering of the regular dividend were disappointed.

Temporary gains of around a point appeared in such issues as American Telephone, American Can, Allied Chemical, Lambert, Union Pacific, American Tobacco "B" and Eastman. United States Steel, General Motors, General Electric and Standard of New Jersey were fairly steady. Woolworth, Liggett and Myers "B", Corn Products and International Harvester ran into some selling, sagging a point or so. New York and Harlem, one of the thinly-traded higher-priced issues, broke 7½ to close to 82, then recovered partly.

Maintenance of American Telephone's $9 dividend rate had been rather freely predicted during the last day or two, although not long ago there was considerable discussion of a possible reduction to $7 or $8 to bring the rate more closely in line with earnings. The midweek steel reviews also provided a trace of encouragement, indicating a slight gain in aggregate ingot output.

RESERVE KEEPS CREDIT POLICY

WASHINGTON, May 18.—(AP.)—The Federal Reserve Banks will continue open market purchases of government securities to increase cash balances available to banks for making loans.

This was announced last night after a day-long conference at the Reserve Board of the 12 Reserve Bank governors, but the announcement said the extent and amount of purchases would be "determined from time to time as conditions justify."

The Federal Reserve Board is expected in informed financial quarters here to decrease the securities purchases in coming weeks. These have approximated $100,000,000 a week for five weeks. The general impression was that the present week would be the last in which the system would purchase $100,000,000 of government securities.

STOCKHOLDER LISTS GROW LONGER

Wealthy Not Using Slump To Wedge Out Small Fry; Belief in Future Growing

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER

NEW YORK, May 18.—In the vast changes in ownership which the depression is accomplishing, there is no apparent tendency on the part of the ultra wealthy to edge out the little fellows.

On the contrary, there has been a steady increase in the number of stockholders in the listed corporations. While a number of stocks, particularly those of companies in the industrial group, have suffered drastic declines in equity holdings, as a matter of fact, the New York Stock Exchange studies of the floating supply of United States Steel stock indicate that when the speculative class exchanges stock with the investor class the latter usually gets the better of things.

A survey by R. G. Dun & Co. shows that two years ago 240 corporations had 4,103,267 common stockholders, and that according to the last count the number had increased to 5,647,651, a gain of 41½ per cent.

A recent study by Daniel Starch showed that 152 of the largest corporations in the United States gained 1,214,150 stockholders in 1931, bringing the total up to 8,557,177. For 102 companies the number of shareholders was 38.6 per cent higher than in 1929.

Dr. Starch, writing in Forbes Magazine, though recognizing that a large part of the increase since 1929 had been due to involuntary investment by hitherto marginal speculators, concluded that the growth in numbers indicated "a growing belief in the future, efficiencies and inherent soundness of large scale business operations."

In view of the fact that the growth in the number of owners has been accompanied by a decline in the prices of such stocks, Printer's Ink, taking a contrary view, suggests the theory that the current changes represent stockholder distrust. This observer holds that the added number of names springs from a decision on the part of nervous investors to diversify their holdings among more companies than is normally the case. In support of this analysis, it cited an estate which held securities of 98 corporations, 23 municipalities and 14 foreign governments and corporations.

WHEAT TAKES DIP, RISES

CHICAGO, May 18.—Influenced by setbacks in Liverpool quotations, wheat prices here sagged early today, but buying on resting orders caused rallies. There was no aggressive pressure to sell. Opening at a shade to ½ decline, Chicago wheat later rose all around to above yesterday's finish. Corn started at ½@¾ off to a shade advance and subsequently scored general gains.

With hot dry weather prevalent over domestic winter wheat territory whereas cool moist conditions were desirable, bullish traders gained some advantage at times, and showed a disposition to emphasize likelihood of only a small crop, especially as the damage area appeared to be extending east.

The following quotations on the Chicago Board of Trade are reported by A. C. Allyn & Co.:

Manufacturer Buys West Virginia Wool

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., May 18.—(AP)—The West Virginia Wool Association, Inc., representing state farmers who market wool co-operatively, sold its output of 385,000 pounds direct to a manufacturing company at a sale here yesterday.

The price was described as "satisfactory" by officials, but was unannounced. Delivery will begin June 1 in eastern panhandle counties and later in other sections of the state.

Soft Coal Stocks Show Sharp Drop

WASHINGTON, May 18.—(AP)—Commercial stocks of bituminous coal declined 5,450,000 tons between the first of the year and April.

The Bureau of Mines reported stocks on April 1 amounted to 30,050,000 tons. Reserves on that date, however, were 1.9 per cent greater than a year before.

FEW RUNS BY BUCS WHEN BILL HURLS

THOUGH HE MANAGED to turn in his first victory of the season yesterday, Bill Harris, as usual, had to pitch a whale of a game to get the decision. The fact that his mates made only three runs does not offer much hope that he has been freed of the jinx that keeps the Pirates from doing a reasonable amount of scoring behind him. Bill has almost to shut out an opponent to win. That has been his lot ever since he came up to the Bucs from Fort Worth last fall, just as it was earlier in 1931, when, despite an earned run average of only 2.88, he lost more games than any other pitcher in the Texas League, with 21 defeats against 11 wins.

Bill Harris

Since he joined the Rovers, Harris has lost four games while winning only three, but his pitching has been far better than that record would appear to indicate. In the seven contests he pitched to decisions, Bill allowed a total of only 15 runs and 46 hits. He hurled one shutout, and in each of the three other games allowed only one run. Yet he has lost more games than he has won, all because the Corsairs, in those seven engagements, made only 17 runs behind him. No hurler in that time has pitched more consistently good ball nor had more consistently bad luck.

SOMETIMES A PITCHER who has become a jinx to a particular club retains his mastery over that team regardless of changes in its lineup from year to year. The Pirates, for example, though changing players and managers, were beaten 11 times in a row by Carl Hubbell, 10 times by Red Lucas and nine times by Dazzy Vance before they could throw off the yoke.

But the case of Fred Fitzsimmons and the Cincinnati club appears to be different. The rout of the Giant right-hander by the Reds on Monday may have been an indication that in making over his team almost in its entirety this year Dan Howley has smashed one of the most persistent pitching hoodoos that has ever trailed any major league outfit.

PRIOR TO THAT game, the Reds had not beaten Fitzsimmons since May 2, 1930, more than two years. He had bowled them over six times in succession, and in three straight seasons had lost to them only four times in 16 meetings.

And it wasn't only the number of times Fitz beat the Reds, but the way he beat them, that stood out. In 1929 he shut them out four times in succession, a record against one club, holding them scoreless for 36 consecutive innings with a total of only 20 hits.

LEAVING BABE RUTH and his home-run clouting out of the question, it is generally admitted that with everything considered—batting, fielding and baserunning—Al Simmons, of the A's, is the outstanding outfielder of the American League. But for pure fielding skill, many players and critics vote the crown to Sam West, of Washington. He is not the equal of Simmons offensively, though a .300 hitter in three of his four full seasons as a Senator, but defensively they hold he has an edge and is the best outfielder uncovered in the American since Tris Speaker ruled.

Hughey Critz

WHAT CAUSES THE arm injuries of which so many second basemen are victims? Hughey Critz, of the Giants; Charley Gehringer, of the Tigers; Tony Lazzeri, of the Yankees, and several other prominent keystone sackers have been out of action for long periods in recent years.

Critz thinks it's all due to the sharp throw a second baseman has to make. "Put a shortstop over at second and he'll get a sore arm every time," said the midway star of the Giants. "The throw is different, but when a man has played there a long time the arm adjusts itself to it."

THE BOXING BOUTS in the Olympic Games at Los Angeles will mark one occasion when a state fight commission will have no say in its own territory. The International Federation will handle everything, including the appointment of officials, who, like the boxers, will be bonafide amateurs. There will be two judges and a referee, all sitting outside the ring.

Dr. Harry Martin, chairman of the California Boxing Commission, had begun to worry about his functions, particularly after receiving applications for assignments from a number of his professional referees and judges. He has been notified that he won't have to trouble himself; that he'll even have to buy his own ticket if he wants to see the Olympic bouts.

BOXING SHOWS IN Los Angeles get a lot of patronage from the Hollywood film world. Many of the movie stars are fight fans and never miss a bout. Occupying ringside seats at a recent show were Marlene Dietrich, Joe E. Brown, Maurice Chevalier, Al Jolson, William Farnum, George Bancroft, Conway Tearle, Alan Hale, Dick Arlen, Pat O'Brien and numerous others. Lupe Velez is said to be the wildest rooter among the women stars. Lupe picks her favorite in advance of a fight and roots for him through thick and thin to the finish, win or lose.

THE ELEMENT OF luck plays a prominent part in baseball, as everybody knows. It is the deciding factor in many a football game, and counts heavily in many additional pastimes. But it is held to cut more of a figure in thoroughbred horse racing than in any other sport.

One of the country's leading handicapers is quoted as saying that there are more than 100 races in which a horse can lose a race, including a number that might be described as being outside the racing rules. Nowhere else in sports, he contends, does the percentage of luck figure so strongly.

THOUGH HEC DYER and his coach, Boyd Comstock, had predicted the former would smash old theories by proving a sprinter could be successful from a standing start, followers of track sports were not prepared for the sensational performance that Hec gave in his first real race at that style.

Hec Dyer

Dyer's feat of equaling the 200-meter Olympic record is still being discussed as worthy of a ranking among the most sensational achievements of any period on the cinder path. His time of 21.6 seconds was made around a circular track. There was no straightaway of any nature. The track was all turns. And it was all the more remarkable because of the standing start.

EVEN SUCH A veteran as Comstock pronounced the race one of the greatest he had ever seen for perfect running. Dyer got off to an excellent start and ran relaxed, like Ben Eastman, the entire distance. He built up a lead of 10 yards in the first 75 and coasted along easily the remainder of the way. Comstock sees in the race evidence in support of the opinion he expressed some time ago that the time is coming when the old standing start will again be in vogue. He says the theory that a crouching start with short, choppy strides, is the thing, will pass. The way to get into a full relaxed stride, he says, is to leap out with as big a step as possible at the crack of the gun. He has proved to his own satisfaction, by timing the advance in the first few yards, that the standing start is faster than the crouch.

RULE AFFECTS PITT, TECH, W. & J.

NEW YORK, May 18.—(AP.)—Official action outlawing athletic scholarships has been taken by the commission on institutions of higher learning of the Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, it was announced today by A. L. Jones, chairman of the commission.

The association includes the leading colleges of New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland and the District of Columbia.

COLLEGES HERE

Among the more prominent of the members of the association are Columbia, Cornell, New York University, Manhattan, Lafayette, Lehigh, Princeton, Pennsylvania, Pittsburgh, Carnegie Tech, Washington and Jefferson, Temple and Georgetown.

The commission has adopted resolutions providing that after September, 1933, any school offering scholarship based on athletic achievement alone, will be excluded from the association's approved list.

Jones said in a statement:

"It has long been felt that the academic standard of colleges has been gravely affected by the practice of subsidizing athletes, which practice has been reported as existing in a number of colleges. As a step toward placing the whole matter on a better basis, the commission adopted last December the following resolution:

"Resolved, That the practice which prevails in certain colleges of awarding athletic scholarships is undesirable and that the commission disapproves of this practice.

EXCLUSION PENALTY

"Further resolved, That beginning with September, 1933, an institution which grants or continues such scholarships shall be held to be disqualified for inclusion in the approved list of institutions of higher education of the Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools."

A meeting of representatives of the colleges was held in New York, May 10, and the whole matter was discussed, Jones said. Another meeting is planned soon to further discuss the question.

DENIAL MADE HERE

Denial was made here today by Clarence Overend, of Carnegie Tech, that athletic scholarships are in effect at the local institution. In the absence of W. Don Harrison, athletic director of the University of Pittsburgh, who is out of the city, University of Pittsburgh officials said their status would not be changed, as they do not maintain athletic scholarships. W. & J. recently changed its athletic system, abolishing athletic scholarships in the shakeup.

U.S.C. Team Given Fresno Relay Title

FRESNO, Cal., May 18. — (AP.) —The team championship of last Saturday's Fresno relays officially has been awarded to the University of Southern California by the games committee.

Correcting an error in scoring the high jump, results of which previously had given a mysterious "Goldstein" a tie with Bob Van Osdel, of University of Southern California, the games committee ruled the Trojans nosed out the Los Angeles Athletic Club by the margin of one point, 70 6-7 to 69 6-7.

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: THE HUMAN STATUE—The curious Human Statue of Omei Shan is in reality the mummy of the first Manchu Emperor of China, Shu Chi. The Emperor was balked in a love affair and so decided to renounce the throne and to spend the rest of his life in the solitude of the monastery of Omei Shan (Temple of the Golden Peak), the greatest sanctuary of China. The former ruler rose to be the abbot of this monastery, and after his death the body, arrayed in the imperial yellow silk robes, was preserved with a coating of lacquer and bronze, and placed on a pedestal to be venerated as the Eternal Human Statue. The Emperor died in 1661, but I was permitted to gaze at a smooth, full-fleshed face, which in death was very lifelike and bore a human peaceful expression. UNWANTED BABIES—The birth of a baby boy is the happiest event in a Chinese father's life, but he will sorrow over the birth of a girl. Such unwanted children usually are placed within the "Baby Tower." Only one infant may be deposited within the tower at a time, and the person removing it is compelled by law to adopt the foundling and to care for it the rest of its life. Should anyone attempt to add another occupant to the tower, he is compelled to adopt the baby already in it.

TOMORROW: WORKING BEYOND LIFE'S SPAN.

HEYDLER VISITS HERE TODAY

John A. Heydler, president of the National League, is spending today in Pittsburgh. He reached the city this morning after visiting the other towns in the western end of the circuit. He attended the world championship flag-raising at St. Louis Sunday and was to witness today's clash of the Pirates and Dodgers.

The league's chief executive is optimistic over the future of baseball, despite the present depression. He spoke glowingly of the league's managers and players. There is no depression on the field of play, he asserted.

Rosenbloom, Nichols Title Bout Fades

NEW YORK, May 18.—(AP.)—That scheduled battle between Maxie Rosenbloom and George Nichols, which was to settle all disputes over the light-heavyweight championship, seems definitely off.

Nichols, Buffalo youth, who recently won National Boxing Association recognition as 175-pound titleholder, has informed the New York State Athletic Commission he can't accept offers for a fight with Rosenbloom, whose claims to the crown are backed by the state commission.

RACE NOT SANCTIONED

GREENVILLE, O., May 18.—(AP.)—An erroneous report that the American Automobile Association had sanctioned an auto race here Sunday was carried by the Associated Press that night. Backers of the races here said today that the A. A. A. had not sanctioned the events. T. E. Allen, secretary of the contest board of the A. A. A., said no sanction was granted the races and that they were not connected in any way with the A. A. A.

LEWIS WINS

BALTIMORE, May 17.—(AP.)—Ed (Strangler) Lewis, former heavyweight wrestling champion of the world, used a head lock to defeat Howard Cantowine in 50 minutes 10 seconds here last night.

KENTUCKY TRIO TO PLAY HERE

A trio of polo matches have been arranged between the Iroquois Hunt and Polo Club, of Louisville, and a picked team from the local Indoor Polo League for over Memorial Day. The first game will be played Saturday, May 28, the second on Sunday and the third Monday.

The Saturday contest will be a benefit affair for the East Liberty and Homewood skimmed milk stations.

Layden Speaker At Oil City Affair

OIL CITY, Pa., May 18.—(AP.)—Elmer Layden, coach of Duquesne University, was the principal speaker at a testimonial dinner for George Benedict, St. Joseph High School coach, last night.

Benedict, former Duquesne star athlete, terminates his services at St. Joseph High in June. He will coach at Ellwood City next year.

MUSHBALL LOOP MEETS

All managers and officers of the Tenth Ward Mushball League are urged to attend a meeting to be held at 8:30 tonight at St. Kieran's school hall, Fifty-third street and Carnegie avenue.

M.-A. HITTERS POUND BALL

The Middle Atlantic League sluggers had their batting eyes wide open yesterday as they pounded out a total of 72 runs in the three games played.

At Johnstown, Beckley's Black Knights took the lead by walloping the Johnnies, 20 to 11. Huntington piled up 34 hits as Clarksburgh was defeated, 18 to 11, at Huntington. Eight errors contributed no little to the downfall of the Generals.

Cumberland and Charleston toned things down a bit at Cumberland, the Colts winning, 9 to 3.

Pro Baseball Body To Discuss Minors

DURHAM, N. C., May 18.—(AP.)—W. G. Bramham, chairman of the executive committee, has announced the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues would meet in Rochester, N. Y., May 22 and 23 for a discussion of economies and financial readjustments among the minor leagues comprising the associations.

It was indicated a proposal for a scaling down of players' salaries would likely be among matters to be considered.

Walker Team Player Leads Tourney Field

KANSAS CITY, May 18.—(AP.)—Little Paul Jackson, nominated as a candidate for the United States Walker Cup team, led a field of 120 with a sub-par 71 as the second day's play in the 72-hole medal Heart of America golf tournament got under way this morning at the Milburn Golf and Country Club.

James Crandall, young Pirate pitcher, son of Coach Otis Crandall, was farmed out today to the Williamsport Club of the New York-Pennsylvania League.

COX STOPS ESTRADA

INDIANAPOLIS, May 18.—(AP.)—Tracy Cox, Indianapolis lightweight, won by a technical knockout over Jose Estrada, Mexico City, in the fifth round of a scheduled 10-round boxing contest here last night. The referee stopped the bout after Estrada suffered a badly cut right eye.

L. WANER HITS HOME RUN AS BUCS WIN

By CHARLES DOYLE

Those beardless youths who play "off-again-on-again" baseball for the veteran George Gibson will take on the rollicking Dodgers this afternoon in the third game of what may turn out to be a swell series. The Pirates won yesterday largely through the championship pitching of Bill Harris and the timely batting of a few of Bill's mates. Lloyd Waner's first home of the season, a liner into the left-center pocket, proved to be the winning punch in a 3-to-1 engagement.

For this afternoon's dish the fans are likely to be served some Dazzy Vance offerings. Ol' Diamarine has had four days of rest since he threw back the Reds, and Manager Carey is expected to call on The Dazzler in the third fight. Bill Swift, the impressive right-hander, who came up from Kansas City, will fling the ball for the Buccaneers.

CAREY, GIBSON DICKER

Carey and Gibson, by the way, are interspersing their actual baseball here with almost solemn conclaves which have to do with holdout Pitcher Heinie Meine. The officials of the two clubs had a David Harum session yesterday, but when it ended nothing of a definite nature had been reached. Pittsburgh directors indicated there would be further negotiations today.

The Brooklyn folks made no secret of their desire to secure the Prince of Luxemburg, but apparently they are not willing to give up Southpaw Bill Clarke or any others of their first-string performers. They are said to have offered Shortstop Gordon Slade and either Catcher Clyde Sukeforth or Catcher Val Picinich.

Texas Bill Harris was in the same pleasing form he showed last season as he took the Dodgers for a ride on six hits yesterday. Ray Phelps and Fred Heimach, of the Brooklyn sharpshooting corps, were just about as nifty as Harris, but the Pirates were able to bunch five of their seven hits in the third and fourth innings to score their three runs.

Little Lloyd's homer was a "clothes-line" smack with two out that also gave Harris a passport to the plate.

LLOYD HITS HOMER

Two Bucco had been erased in the third when Harris carved himself a double to right. Like a flash Brother Lloyd whammed a Phelps offering into the left-center pocket. Dan Taylor made a diving effort to flag the ball and had to follow through by sliding along the grass on his face. Frank O'Doul retrieved the rocket near the fence, but the fast handling of the sphere could not keep Lloyd on the runways.

Big Dave Barbee whistled a hot double against the left fence in the fourth with one out. Suhr varied the attack by denting the right-field screen with a two-sacker, Barbee scoring.

Chillysauce

Casey Stengel knows how to get around the no-conversation-with-fans rule. Max Carey's assistant makes clever speeches to the unoccupied sections of the stands, yet loud enough for hundreds to hear.

Shutting off Stengel's flow of wit is just as difficult as interfering with the rippling course of a mountain stream.

With Casey and Dazzy Vance in the same dugout, the Dodgers are not without their entertainment. And Hack Wilson is around to add to the gravity of the Flatbush Nation.

The Dodgers carry 15 newspapermen to record their feats. Eddie Murphy, of the New York Sun, is not the same John Chalk Bubble and Babe Herman, of the club, is a Dodger, always a Dodger, eh, Eddie?

Max Kase, of the New York Evening Journal; Eddie Murphy, of the New York Sun, and John Gorman, secretary of the Dodgers, are suffering from shock and contusions as a result of a collision between a cab in which they were riding and another car on Center avenue, near Craig street, Monday night.

Nick Altrock Baseball's Humorist Says:

WASHINGTON, May 18.—That Western trip didn't do the Giants much good. McGraw would have had as much success on the road if he'd been selling sable coats.

Nick Altrock

The Giants came back from their California training trip full of health and then they contracted anaemia of the batting average, ptomaine pitching and a touch of fallen arches from the way they've been running bases. Outside of that, they're a good risk.

Say, I see the economists say New England business has the best foundation in the whole country. Well, why wouldn't it have the best foundation? Haven't the Red Sox been digging the cellar for years?

YANKEES CONTINUE CHAMPIONSHIP STRIDE

CARDS DEFEAT BRAVES; REDS, CUBS WIN

Associated Press

Their hopes for a new all-time record for holding the opposition scoreless gone, the Yankees today bent their energies toward winning the American League pennant.

And if ever a ball club looked like a champion, Manager Joe McCarthy's high-powered outfit. Their pitching is a stretching eight victories has been air-tight, their perfect, their hitting timely and their fielding almost inspired.

YANKS GAIN GROUND

Their closest rivals, the Washington Senators, have hit hard sledding against the western clubs and dropped three straight to St. Louis. Yesterday's 3-2 triumph over Cleveland while the Senators were losing to the Browns, 11 to 9, put the McCarthymen a ball game in front of the field.

The Philadelphia Athletics bunched three singles with a wild throw in the seventh inning to beat the Detroit Tigers, 2 to 0. George Earnshaw allowed only four hits. The Chicago White Sox made it three straight over Boston, 7 to 5.

Bill Walker, New York Giant southpaw, lost his own game to Cincinnati, 6-2 to 1, when he let loose a wild throw past first on Manion's bunt in the tenth and Grantham scored from third base. Bill Terry's eighth home run of the season gave the Giants their only run off Ray Kolp. Pittsburgh made it two out of three over Brooklyn, 3 to 1.

CUBS BEAT PHILLIES

Philadelphia's Phillies blew sky high in the seventh inning and Chicago scored eight runs to win, 9 to 4.

Pepper Martin returned to the Cardinals' lineup after being out several weeks with a dislocated shoulder and drove in two runs with a double as Bill Hallahan bested Lefty Brandt in a hurling duel, 4 to 3.

W. P. I. A. L. to Name Officers Saturday

The members of the Western Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic League will hold their annual meeting in the Fifth Avenue High School Saturday at 9 o'clock. Officers for the year will be elected and reports for the past year will be read by the various committees.

The decisions committee will hold a separate meeting prior to the gathering of the league officials.

Sport Vignettes

Lew Raymond, new matchmaker at the Meyers Bowl, was watching an ambitious young ringster work out in the gymnasium the other day . . . "How do you like him?" asked the doting manager . . . "Such a physique, such legs, such cleverness, such a punch! How do you like him? . . . Lew wanted to say the right thing . . . "Magnificent," he replied . . . "Great kid, ain't he? How do you like him—huh?" from the manager . . . "Magnificent," Raymond repeated . . . A snort of disgust from the manager . . . "Aw, cut it out," he shouted, as he walked away, "Always wise-cracking!"

PITT TRACKMEN ROUT TARTANS

By JESS CARVER

Pitt hammered another nail into its banner of athletic supremacy over Carnegie Tech for the year as the Panther varsity and freshmen track and field squads recorded easy and impressive triumphs over Tartan teams in the annual meet yesterday afternoon in the Pitt Stadium. The Panther varsity defeated the Skibos 88-43, and the Pitt Cubs walloped the Plebes 85½ to 38½.

The victory in the varsity meet was the twelfth in a row for Pitt over its Schenley Park rivals and was the initial triumph of the year for the Blue and Gold squad. The win was attended by only one or two sensational performances, the outstanding one being Woody Harris' stepping in the sprints. The lithe Ambridge Negro clipped off a 9.9 century and a 21.8 furlong.

Pitt now has defeated Carnegie in football, basketball, tennis, boxing, swimming and track this school year, losing only in cross-country.

COULTER WINS HURDLES

The Skibos did not bow without a struggle, and managed to take down five first places as well as getting an even break in a sixth. Capt. Tom Coulter won both hurdle races, Jess Price took the two-mile, Murray Armentrout captured the hammer throw, Ray Barger won the pole vault, and Merten tied Thiessen in the high jump.

Pitt's triumphs were credited to Harris in the dashes, Gains in the 880, Len Monheim in the quarter, Watkins in the mile, Valenti in the shot, Tormey in the javelin, Jim MacMurdo in the discus and Mike Sebastian in the broad jump.

Harris and Coulter were the only double victors of the day, though Jack Keller, Pitt middle-distance star, might have gone along with the sprinter and hurdler had he not permitted teammates to win in his specialties, the 880-yard event and the 440. He took down seconds in both. Pitt scored the only sweep of the meet when Valenti, MacMurdo and Luch finished in that order in the shot.

Kiger, Pitt freshman quarter-miler, beat the varsity's mark in the 440 when he stepped the distance in 51.2 in a fine race. He was beaten in the half mile later on by Burke of Tech, by a stride.

WADDELL DOING WELL

While Pitt was taking Carnegie in track, Duquesne's struggling tennis team was taking another one on the chin, losing to Grove City's collegers at Grove City, 9-0.

Coach Bob Waddell, head man in football at Carnegie, was reported doing nicely this morning at South Side Hospital where he yesterday underwent an operation for the removal of his appendix. He now has something to crow about over Max Hannum, who still has his.

Pitt's crack tennis team, unbeaten to date, inaugurates its eastern invasion this afternoon by meeting the Navy at Annapolis.

RIFLE TRIALS CARDED

Trials for the international rifle team to compete in England will be held Saturday at Butler. Trials will be conducted in four classes.

Shutout Steve Swetonic With Seals Tonight

Shutout Steve Swetonic, Pittsburgh's Pirate pitching prodigy, has been added to the weekly program of the Trained Seals of the Sports Department of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, to be broadcast over WCAE from 6:50 to 7:15 o'clock this evening.

Swetonic has pitched three shutout victories for the Corsairs this season and has not been scored upon in his last 20 innings, a remarkable feat in the major leagues. He'll be asked to tell something about himself and how he does it when he steps before the mike.

In addition to Steve, there'll be Dazzy Vance, the star hurler of the Brooklyn Dodgers; Manager Max Carey, of the Brooklyn Club, and Coach Casey Stengel, of the visitors, all former wearers of Pirate livery.

GOLFERS IN INTERVIEW

And then there'll be that golf feature of interest to all players open for tips on how to improve their game. It will consist of an interview by Tom Birks, golf editor of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, with Charley Manning and Ted Luther, leading local professionals.

Also on the program will be Harry Klaas, tenor singing announcer of boxing shows; Miss Marian Salmon, pianist; Charles J. Doyle, cross-firing the baseball luminaries, and Julius Levin. Harry Keck, sports editor, will be master of ceremonies and Bill Sutherland the announcer.

Fourth Junior Cup Playoff Saturday

The Castle Shannon and Heidelberg soccer teams will attempt to decide the West Penn junior championship for the fourth time Saturday afternoon when they meet at Westinghouse High field.

Three previous attempts to settle the issue have ended in deadlocks.

The West Penn cup committee will meet tomorrow evening to decide on a protest filed by the Morrys against Cecil.

LOCAL LINKSMEN COMPETE AT SOUTH HILLS

By TOM BIRKS

The first heavy program of competitive golf is being offered in this section today as both men and women golfers engage in tournament action along several fronts.

The piece de resistance of the menu is the Pennsylvania State Golf Association's one-day tourney at South Hills. With contestants starting out at 9 o'clock this morning and teeing off steadily all day. A large field was scheduled to compete.

At Allegheny Country Club, the Western Pennsylvania Women's Golf Association is holding its first one-day tournament of the season.

CHARTIERS WOMEN MEET

A golf luncheon marked the formal opening of women's activities at Chartiers Heights. Mrs. Lee Hemingway is chairman of the golf committee this year, with Mrs. J. I. Andrews vice chairman and Mrs. John Reed secretary-treasurer.

Women members of the Valley Heights Country Club will have their first get together today. Election of officers and the setting of tournament dates will take place.

Yesterday Pitt's varsity linksmen walloped Duquesne's club swingers 5 to 1 at Oakmont, the setback being the second to be suffered by the Dukes at the hands of the Panthers this year. Patrino scored Duquesne's only point, defeating Art Sekay, Pitt footballer, 2 up. The summary:

Individual matches—Regis Wolf, Pitt, defeated Francis Toller, Dukes, 2 and 1; Gene Fairlie, Dukes, defeated Art Sekay, Pitt, 2 up; Charley Wolf, Pitt, defeated Tom Tiernan, Dukes, 3 and 2; Charles Decker, Pitt, defeated P. Baughman, Dukes, 4 and 3.

Foursome—E. Wolf and Sears, Pitt, defeated Patrino and Toller, Duke, 10 holes; C. Wolf and Decker, Pitt, defeated Baughman and Tiernan, Dukes, 5 and 3.

CADDIE MASTERS ELECT

Officers were elected and the date for the first tournament of the season selected at the annual dinner of the Caddie Masters' Association and Assistant Professionals' Golf Association at Longue Vue last evening. The association members were dinner guests of Edward E. McCoy, chairman of the caddie welfare committee of the W. P. G. A.

The first tourney will be held at Edgewood June 13. Bill Stocker, Stanton Heights, was elected president. Allister Soutar, Allegheny Country Club, vice president, and Andy Petrolio Schenley, secretary and treasurer.

The annual qualifying 36-hole test for Pittsburgh golfers seeking places on the local public links team will be staged June 14 at Schenley. The national public links event is booked for Louisville, July 19 to 23. Entry blanks may be secured from Bob Graham, Schenley pro.

The women's golf committee of the St. Clair Country Club has scheduled an 18-hole medal-play tourney for the opening event tomorrow. An invitation tourney is scheduled for Thursday, June 30. Mrs. E. Griffin, chairman, is assisted by Mrs. Clark Gould and Mrs. E. W. Judy.

BOISE SUGGESTS DAVIS CUP CHANGES

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

It's going on five years since the Davis Cup left our shores for France. The old defenders, Big Bill and Little Bill, have passed from the scene. New stars have risen and a few of them have set. Still the trophy lies across the sea. Until last year, with Tilden still in the picture, we were always odds against the field to reach the challenge round. But, in 1931, the Britishers, Perry and Austin, spilled our youngsters, Shields and Wood, in the inter-zone final, and it was England rather than the United States that challenged the Gauls at Stade Roland Garros.

Julius Boise

This spring, again the hopes of Uncle Sam flaunt high. Stalwart Ellsworth Vines, Pacific Coast phenom, has supplanted Wood on the squad, and, with the abetment of Allison Van Ryn and Shields, has hustled the United States contingent past Canada and Mexico and into the American Zone final with Australia. But, even assuming that the Anzacs will be conquered, Great Britain and the French remain across our path to the bowl. What's the answer?

SHUN WIMBLEDON

Julius Boise, veteran tennis professional of the Allegheny Country Club and product of the European school, offers an interesting and constructive suggestion:

"Keep our cup singles players out of Wimbledon," he says. "Let Allison and Van Ryn play there, but send Vines and Shields on to Paris instead of subjecting them to the two weeks' grind of the all-England championships. Why? For two reasons. First, our men usually wear themselves out at Wimbledon, while the French refuse to take the tournament seriously and conserve themselves for the Davis Cup defense. After Wimbledon, the French have a let-down, anyway, while the United States must play the inter-zone final.

"Second, because Wimbledon is a grass court event and the cup matches are played on hard clay in France. Vines, our best man, is a fairly slow starter, as he showed in the early tournaments this season. I don't believe he could jump from turf to clay after Wimbledon and adapt himself to the new conditions quickly enough to be at his top game for either the inter-zone tie or the challenge round. Shields needs plenty of work to hold him at the peak of form, and two or three weeks of stiff practice at Paris would set him up about right for the important tests. Allison, on the contrary, is very adaptable, and I don't doubt that he and Van Ryn can readily play at Wimbledon, uphold American tradition and good will there, and still be in fine trim in France.

OPPOSES CAPTAIN PLAN

"Another thing I would like to see would be the abolishing of the position of non-playing captain on the American team. Non-playing captains probably have caused damage through discord in the past, and I doubt that they ever have accomplished much good. At least, the Cup isn't back yet. It would be better to increase our team to five or six actual players and eliminate the non-playing leader. Some of the social activities connected with pursuit of the cup also might be profitably done away with and money saved in this fashion could be applied toward the securing of a first-class professional coach—Tilden, if available—to work the team into the best possible shape for a chase which this year, with the French, aside from Cochet, faltering, seems more likely than ever before to succeed."

Conference Mile Record May Fall

CHICAGO, May 18.—(AP.)—One of the oldest records on the Western Conference books—Eddie Fall's 4:15.8 for the mile—is expected to go in the annual championship meet Saturday.

Fall, running for Oberlin College, outfooted the best milers in the Middlewest to set his record in 1917, and a number of times since it has been in danger, only to hold up.

This year Henry Brocksmith of Indiana, the greatest miler and two-miler in Big Ten history, figures to smash the mark. If he runs as he did in setting a new indoor record of 4:12.5, the prospective lack of competition will make no difference.

Fight Results

At Indianapolis—Tracy Cox won by a technical knockout over Jose Estrada, 5 rounds.

At Duluth—Izzy Levine defeated Nick Lahti, 8 rounds.

At Mt. Clemens—Chuck Woods and Don McLeod drew, 8 rounds.

The Book team meets the Frank Ferris Club at the Pleasant Valley field on the North Side.

The Soho McKnights meet the Homestead Aces in an outstanding West Penn League game at Homestead.

COUNTY LEAGUE GAME

In the County League, the Scott Morgans, of Homewood, will tangle with the Potts club. Since that the Homewood outfit handed the Pittsburgh Cardinals a neat lacing, there is every reason to feel that the East Enders will cut quite a path in the title race.

The Frick Park club, of the County League, wants to book games on a home and home basis. First-class clubs should write P. K. Hershey, 407 Biddle avenue, Wilkinsburg, or call Penhurst 5611.

The Turtle Creek Granthams are booking games home and abroad. Write Wallace Kerr, 1310 Center avenue, Turtle Creek, Pa.

The J. L. Thomas nine walloped the Geislers in a City League encounter last evening, 13-2, while the North Siders defeated Reliance Life, 8-6, and the Frank Ferris team trimmed Homewood, 9-1.

In the West Penn circuit, Carrick Eagles defeated Duquesne, 10-8, and the St. Clair Frogs upset Turtle Creek, 8-1.

GRAYS ARE BEATEN

The Homestead Grays lost another one to the Cuban Giants at Alliance, bowing 5 to 3. Tomorrow the Grays meet the Detroit Wolverines here at Forbes Field, following the Pirate-Dodger game and today they finish their present series with the Cubans at Wheeling.

Lineys nosed out the North Side Civics, 4-2, and Fineview defeated the Snees, 7-6, in city section Greater Pittsburgh loop tussles. Immaculate Heart downed Iroquois, 3-2, and Whitaker won over Edgewood, 4-2, in Greater Pittsburgh League contests.

Charleroi downed Bentleyville, 3-1; Fayette City walloped Gibson, 9-2, and North Belle Vernon trimmed the Belle Vernon Merchants, 3-1, in Monon Valley League contests last evening.

Hoosier Track Star Wins Western Medal

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., May 18.—(AP.)—Henry Brocksmith, Indiana University's sensational distance runner, has been announced as winner of the Western Conference medal, annually awarded to the senior student most outstanding in scholarship and athletics. He is a student in the school of medicine.

Brocksmith established a new national intercollegiate two-mile record at the Drake relays, and holds the conference indoor records in both the two-mile and mile.

MATMEN FINISH UP INDOORS TONIGHT

By HARRY KECK

Sports Editor

Wrestling has its final fling of the indoor season here tonight, two finish matches featuring the card, three 30-minute limit preliminaries rounding it out.

Gino Garibaldi, young Italian star, who threw Frank Speers in the most recent show, returns to oppose John Maxos Greek in the main event, and Howard Cantonwine, of Iowa, meets Wee Willie Davis, a big fellow from Virginia, in the other match to a fall.

The Motor Square Garden mat will be the scene of activities, with the show getting under way at 8:30.

STEINKE IN PRELIM

Jack McCarthy and Hans Steinke are billed for the main preliminary, McCarthy taking the place of Rudy Dusek, who is injured.

Tony Znoski, of Boston, comes back against Charley Fox, of Cleveland, and Paul Harper, of Texas, tackles Roland Kirchmeyer, Oklahoma giant, in the opener. Kirchmeyer is 6 feet 7 inches tall and is said to be the smallest member of his family.

After tonight's show, Promoters Fabiani and Reinecke plan to move their activities outdoors to an arena to be decided upon within a few days.

Between Rounds

Ray Trambie, the middleweight boxer, has left for Indianapolis where he is a good card and hopes to meet Paul Pirrone in a return bout following his technical defeat by the latter at Motor Square Garden Monday night.

William Eley, local Negro feather-weight boxer, will meet Holman Williams, runnerup in the national senior tournament, in a bout in Detroit Friday night.

Buck McTiernan and Jack Wilson both got in their final hard training licks yesterday for their 10-round windup tonight at the conclusion of season at Hickey Park, Millvale, tomorrow night.

Herman Edins, of Ambridge, back from Newark, N. J., will begin work tomorrow at the Pittsburgh Lyceum for his battle with Champion Johnny Judich at Hickey Park Thursday night of next week.

Sandy Seifert, North Side heavyweight is working out lightly at the Pittsburgh Lyceum and may try a comeback.

Tony Canzoneri, the lightweight champion, will arrive either Saturday or Sunday for his bout with Battling Gizzo at the Meyers Bowl next Monday night. Gizzo will remain in his training camp at St. Michaels until Sunday, when he will be driven here by automobile.

MURDER OF THE NIGHT CLUB LADY :-: :-: By ANTHONY ABBOT

Colt Objects to Suggestion Of Immediate Arrest Of Aged Attorney

CHAPTER XXXVI

Colt's hand was on the door knob, as he paused, thought for a moment and framed his next questions with meticulous care.

"Miss Lox, do you remember when you, Lola and Mrs. Carewe were in this room last night—laughing?"

"Oh, yes, Mr. Colt."

"What were you laughing about?"

"Just at my chatter. I was telling them some of the experiences I have had while Mrs. Carewe helped her to undress. I was trying to cheer up Lola."

"Did Lola ask for the bathrobe herself? Think carefully now."

"Yes, she did."

"Did you get it for her?"

"Yes—out of that closet over there."

"And did you button it on her?"

"Her mother did—Lola's hands were trembling so that she could not do much herself."

Colt's grip tightened on the knob—and yet he lingered. He seemed reluctant to go, his mind seemed groping for more facts.

"Was there any conversation about the bathrobe?"

ROWLAND WANTED ROBE

Dorothy Lox who had been rubbing Mrs. Carewe's temples with witch-haze, looked up at Colt with a puzzled air.

"I seem to remember that there was. Now—what could it have been? It was something about the bathrobe being an old one. Mr. Rowland had called here early last night and seen Lola in it. And he had offered to buy it from her. All this was before they even left the house. Lola laughed about how much fun they had over it. He offered to buy her a new one if she would give him that one. And she refused. It seemed it was an old argument between them. Lola had some reason of her own for holding on to that old bathrobe. I gathered it was a present from some admirer—over in Paris, long ago. Anyway, Vincent Rowland did seize the bathrobe and hide it—and Lola refused to leave with him until it was found again. I think, Mr. Colt, that was all there was about the bathrobe."

"I think," returned Thatcher Colt, "that is quite enough. Report here for duty at 7 tonight—and thanks!"

Mrs. Carewe had fallen again into a deep slumber. Colt exchanged a few words with Flynn, who was leaving for headquarters and then we took our departure.

LEE DOUGHERTY

District Attorney Merle K. Dougherty was awaiting us impatiently in the tip of the needle of the Chrysler Building. There, in the rooms of the Cloud Club, we had made our luncheon rendezvous. To me, the Cloud Club quarters are among the supreme disappointments of present New York life. Here is a retreat in the sky, a place where one may dine and loaf among the clouds. From the club windows one might glimpse the most romantic spectacles of the great American metropolis—if one were permitted. But no—there is a registration desk in front of the very best window, and other obstacles apparently wherever is was possible to raise them. The best view is from the toilet. And instead of the peace and quiet of the vault of heaven through which the Chrysler needle is pierced, the place resounds with the endless clucking derry-down of stock market tickers. Thus the Cloud Club is one of a piece with so much of modern New York ineptitude in the face of charming opportunities. But Dougherty belonged to the Cloud Club and he had insisted that we meet in these sad-yet-might-have-been-glorious chambers in the air.

True to his promise, Colt had seen to it that bulletins of all our developments had been sent to the District Attorney's office. Hence it was something of a chastened Dougherty who led us to a round table in a private room. Since we had parted from him after breakfast, Dougherty had been to the barber. His red curls were trimmed; he was wearing a fresh suit, his nails glistened, and his sagging jowls were smooth and powdered. But the great infant blue eyes were troubled and disappointed. Dougherty knew that the case was by no means as simple as he had believed. It was a grave and ghastly problem that seemed every moment to become more perplexingly entangled.

"The case against Vincent Rowland seems to be more conclusive at every turn," he commented after Colt had told him of our recent visit to the apartment. "It seems to me our next step is to face him with what we've got."

But to this Thatcher Colt demurred.

"I am not at all sure that is our wisest course," he objected. "I know Vincent Rowland. I know the mule-like quality of his mind, once he gets his feet firmly planted under him. It is my object not to give him that opportunity. You see, we haven't a case against Rowland yet."

"But my God, Thatcher—his handling of the bathrobe is enough—"

"Not for the jury you will have to convince, Dougherty!"

"By the time we get before the jury, the case will be complete," declared the District Attorney, frowning.

"But let's get it right before we put the steel mittens on the murderer. That's the only satisfactory way to handle a job like this anyway. Rowland can't get away. We have him under the closest observation. Now my idea is to keep him that way, while we establish the vital points which would be needed to convict him."

"Prove that he had possession of the scorpions."

"Certainly—that is one of the most vital phases on which we would have to be 100 per cent correct. Then we shall have to show that even though he had the bathrobe in his hands, he had also the opportunity to secrete the scorpion there. To me that is one of the weakest links in the chain. Consider for yourself, Dougherty—Vincent Rowland had that bathrobe in his hands before he and Lola left the house to go to the Mayfair. Right? Do you believe, then, that he put the scorpion in the bathrobe at that early hour? If so, why did no one notice?

Synopsis

Lola Carewe and her guest Christine Quires, are mysteriously murdered in the former's apartment. Scorpions were the instruments of death. The police suspect Guy Everett, the last person to see Christine alive. Lola had blackmailed Everett. He, however, claims that Christine discovered a plot to kill Lola and feared for her own life because of her knowledge. Police Commissioner Thatcher Colt learns that a young Paris bank clerk, named Basil Boucher, loved Lola. After robbing a bank to buy her a ruby, Basil disappeared. His parents sold medical laboratory specimens. Edward Quires, Christine's brother, left his Rochester home for New York following the receipt of a telegram the day of the murders. Christine was to have inherited wealth shortly. Suspicion also points to Dr. Hugh Baldwin when it is disclosed that he purchased scorpions. He had stated heart failure caused the deaths. Colt, calling to question Baldwin, finds him dead—from a scorpion bite. Colt wonders if Baldwin was the victim of a trick or deliberately released the scorpion. In Baldwin's desk Colt finds a statement in which the doctor says he accidentally poisoned Gaylord Gifford, Lola's husband. Lola's knowledge of this placed Baldwin in her power. She forced him to supply narcotics which she used to victimize her friends and later blackmail them. Then she ordered him to obtain a scorpion to commit a murder. Baldwin learned that Vincent Rowland was behind Lola's activities. Realizing he would be exposed, Baldwin secured another scorpion and committed suicide after the death of the two girls. Lola's mother is questioned again.

Now Go On

Heart of a Wife

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge Is Excited Over Leading Role

Philip Veritzen's hand-clapping and his cries of "bravo" at the end of my reading of my fourth act to him brought me back with a jolt to reality from the realms of my own fancy. But when he followed up his applause with the comment that he should like me for the leading woman's role, and queried me bluntly "Will you take it?" I was what my mother-in-law would call "completely flabbergasted."

"I am far from jesting," he said, "although, of course, I realize that if you were to accept this leading woman's role, I should have to postpone the production for at least a year until I had the opportunity to put you through training which I require of all my people. And if you know anything of my work, you know that for me to give a part to anyone with only a year of training would be almost unheard of. But in your case, you have two advantages. Your voice is really a marvelous organ, and, wonder of wonders, it has not been spoiled in the training you have received. Tell me," he said astoundingly then, "did you not once have lessons for the speaking voice from Madame ——?"

He named an actress of the last generation noted for the beauty of her speaking voice.

"Yes, I did," I replied. "My mother once befriended her signally, and when I was a very young girl, she gave me many months of intensive training."

VERITZEN IS PLEASED

"I knew it!" Mr. Veritzen declared jubilantly. "I always have remarked—and admired your beautiful speaking voice, but as I never had heard you in anything but ordinary conversation, where there was no need for dramatic expression, I did not associate you with Madame ——. But when you read the lines of these different characters, unerringly portraying the joys, the sorrows, and the passions of those widely different characters, I immediately spotted Madame's handiwork. Half your dramatic battle would be already fought."

He paused as if for breath.

"Your other advantage," his organ-like voice went on, "is your ability to throw yourself absolutely into the character you are interpreting. Did you remember while you were reading this act to me that anything in the world existed save those characters you were endowing with flesh and blood?"

"No, to tell you the truth, I didn't."

"Another score for me!" he exulted again. "I would have banked my life on it. That means that you have the superlative dramatic gift. Your voice is an instrument that one can train. This other is a gift from the god of the drama himself. It is vouchsafed to few mortals."

Again he stopped, this time looking at me critically as if, I told myself resentfully, I were an investment he was considering.

MADGE OBJECTS

"I fancy you know," he said, "that I don't go off half-cocked. Therefore, I expect you to believe me when I tell you that I have spoken only the truth, but even while I abide by every word I have said, I realize that it would be difficult for you to accept it. It would mean leaving your home and family, putting yourself in my hands absolutely, and undergoing the most intensive training for a year. At the end of that time I can promise you—"

"You must promise me nothing," I said firmly, with the sudden terrifying remembrance of the stories I had heard concerning Philip Veritzen's tyranny over the minds, souls and bodies of the women who afterwards won high place as Veritzen stars. "You know it would be utterly impossible for me either to leave my home or to devote any great amount of study to the profession of acting, even though a mite of all the preposterous things you have been saying were true."

"I am not in the habit of saying preposterous things," he said stiffly, "and I expect you to believe that I have given you only what is my honest opinion."

"I am sorry," I said "I did not mean to be rude, but what you said startled me more than anything I ever have heard in my life. Won't you forgive me?"

"Of course I'll forgive you," he said. "But I'm going to get even with you by doubting the statement you just made. Do you mean to tell me that Mme. —— never advised you to go upon the stage?"

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS JUNIOR KOMIC CLUB

The regular meeting of the Downtown Chapter of the Sun-Telegraph - Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club which have been held at the Harris Theater weekly until further notice meet at the Davis Theater, Smithfield street and Oliver avenue, at the usual time, 10 a. m. every Saturday morning.

The youngsters will be greeted by J. A. McDonald, newly appointed manager of the Davis Theater. Mr. McDonald was for some time manager of the Memorial (McKeesport Theater, where he had one of the largest Junior Komic Clubs among the Warner Theaters, and he will naturally fit into the "big city" activities of the club.

This is only one of the new directors the members of the various chapters are meeting this week.

Taking Mr. McDonald's place in McKeesport at the Memorial Theater will be Joe Murdock, who for some time was the manager of the Rowland Theater, Wilkinsburg.

The youngsters of the Ambridge chapter of the Sun-Telegraph Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club, when the meeting was called to order last Saturday, were greeted by W. C. Dodds, new manager of the Ambridge Theater. Mr. Dodds formerly managed the Belmar Theater.

Dick Brown has been appointed manager of the Rowland Theater, Wilkinsburg, and met the members of this chapter for the first time last Saturday.

The regular members of the Cameraphone Theater were also greeted by a new manager last week, when Harry Seigel called the meeting to order. He also introduced to the children Edward Rosser, new manager of the Cameraphone Theater.

After Mr. Seigel had introduced Mr. Rosser to the youngsters, he had to dash to the Belmar Theater where he in turn was introduced to the members of the Belmar Chapter as their new manager.

To the members of the Etna-Harris chapter of the Junior Komic Club we want to take this opportunity to tell them about the great show that Morty Henderson has arranged for them this coming Saturday. It's to be known as the Etna-Harris Junior Komic Club Minstrel Show and the cast is made up entirely of members of this chapter. More than 50 children will be in this show.

If you are not a member of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club, send your name and address, name of your parents, school you attend, date and year of your birth, to the Secretary, Junior Komic Club, Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa., and a membership card and button will be mailed you.

Congratulations to the following boys and girls, all members of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club, who are celebrating their birthdays today:

Arsenal—Ed Kane, Mary Megary, Irene Kwas.

Belmar — Gerald O'Connor, Mary Lois Alden, Jack Ainsworth, Betty Peterson, Raymond Kohl.

Davis (Downtown) — John Rollason, Eleanor DeSimone, Perry Dick.

Kenyon—Thomas Casey.

Etna-Harris—WendallGazdik.

Manor—Albert Norbert, Arthur McQuillan, W. Sherwin, Leon Katz, Sylvan Light, Sam Freedman, Louise Comins.

Mt. Oliver-Harris — William Thompson, Leila Hite, James Edwards, Richard Brennan, Frances Kappert.

South Hills — Sara Miller, Peggy Gaylord, Grace Cutler, Frances Dicks.

Grand (Greensburg)—George Yakubisin, Jane McCam.

Ambridge — Jerry Stawsky, Anna Kostura.

WORDS OF THE WISE

If time is precious, no book that will not improve by repeated readings deserves to be read at all.—Carlyle.

The voice of the people has about it something divine; for how otherwise can so many heads agree together as one?—Bacon.

Care should be taken that the punishment does not exceed the guilt; and also that some men do not suffer for offenses for which others are not even indicted.—Cicero.

Men seldom or, rather, never for a length of time, deliberately rebel against anything that does not deserve rebelling against.—Carlyle.

Justice is itself the great standing policy of civil society, and any eminent departure from it, under any circumstances, lies under the suspicion of being no policy at all.—Burke.

Authors and readers are separated by a great gulf of which happily neither is conscious.—Goethe.

KEEPS little AILMENTS from growing into BIG ONES!

It may be just a coated tongue tonight . . . with dull eyes, bad color and breath. But by these symptoms Nature is telling you that you may have a sick child tomorrow.

Help tonight is simple. Tomorrow it may be harder. A single simple dose of Castoria is usually all that's needed to bring relief; it often keeps a serious illness from developing.

Castoria, you know, is the children's own remedy—made specially to give the gentle help their delicate organs must have. It is a pure vegetable preparation; contains no harsh drugs, no narcotics.

In any starting illness such as a cold, a little fever, a food upset, a first-aid dose of Castoria is always a wise precaution.

It's never hard to get children to take Castoria. They love its taste, and are grateful for the relief it always brings to tied-up systems.

For babies or for older children, depend on Castoria's gentle regulation. It has kept many a little ailment from growing into a serious one! Genuine Castoria always has the name Chas. H. Fletcher on the package.

An Unanswered Question

The People Would Like to Know What Became of Hirsh's Voting Machine Royalties

Hiram D. Hirsh, an employee of the Public Service Commission, with offices in the City-County Building, and three associates received $169,000 as royalties on voting machines sold by the Poole Engineering and Machine Company to Allegheny County for $1,000,000.

In connection with the inquiry by a Senate committee concerning various curious features of the deal, Hirsh and his associates were asked what they did with the $169,000. Their attorney, Owen K. Eaton, objected to the question, and two members of the committee, Joseph G. Armstrong, Jr., and C. W. Parkinson, overruling their chairman, Senator Frank J. Harris, sustained the objection.

Armstrong is a son of the late Joseph G. Armstrong who, as chairman of the Board of County Commissioners, in association with E. V. Babcock, the other majority Commissioner, awarded the voting machine contract.

The question of the $169,000 is apparently to go unanswered.

It is too bad that Hirsh and his associates have objected, through their counsel, to answering.

It is a pity that young Armstrong and Parkinson have upheld them in their refusal.

The public would like very much to know what became of the $169,000.

'Coals to Newcastle'

"Carrying coals to Newcastle" has long been a proverbial phrase to denote a foolish or unnecessary action. The phrase might just as well have been "carrying coals to Pennsylvania." With our state famous throughout the world for its rich deposits of bituminous and anthracite it would have been the height of folly for a Pennsylvanian to import coal.

That, alas, is no longer the case. Notwithstanding our rich resources of coal, we are importing it from other states.

In an appeal to Pennsylvanians to use Pennsylvania coal, Gov. Pinchot states that 300,000 tons of Southern West Virginia bituminous and Virginia anthracite came into Central Pennsylvania last year for domestic use alone. If Pennsylvania coal had been used instead, there would have been so much more work for destitute Pennsylvania miners.

Pennsylvania coal is of excellent quality. It follows, accordingly, that Pennsylvania consumers are importing coal from the South because the southern coal is cheaper.

Low as miners' wages are in Pennsylvania, they are said to be still lower in Southern West Virginia, Virginia and Kentucky. Persons who have been investigating conditions in the coal fields of Harlan and Bell counties, Kentucky, the scene of recent labor troubles, report that the miners are virtually serfs and live amid conditions of almost incredible poverty and degradation.

Public schools, highways and the other things on which the taxpayers' money is spent are not nearly so numerous, extensive or costly in the southern coal fields as in Pennsylvania; consequently the coal operators' taxes are much smaller than those of the Pennsylvania operators.

But notwithstanding the advantages of lower wages and lower taxes the southern operators would not be able to sell coal in Pennsylvania if it were not that they have also been favored with ridiculously low freight rates which wipe out the handicap of distance.

It costs a Pittsburgh operator $1.46 to ship a ton of coal 172 miles to a lake port. A Southern West Virginia operator can ship a ton of coal to the same port, a distance of 370 miles, or more than twice as long a haul as that from Pittsburgh, for $1.81, or only 35 cents more than the Pittsburgher must pay.

The Southerners are favored not only in the rates to the lakes but in the rates to Pennsylvania points and other consuming centers.

According to Gov. Pinchot, gas works and power plants in Philadelphia bring coal from Southern West Virginia 450 miles by rail and 250 by water, or a total of 700 miles, at a freight rate only three cents a ton greater than the cost for the all-rail 300-mile haul from Westmoreland County.

Unfair freight differentials are doing as much as anything to strangle Pennsylvania's coal industry.

Make It Unanimous

Everybody Interested in Public Welfare Should Petition Congress for the Prosperity Loan.

The Allegheny County Executive Committee of the Veterans of Foreign Wars has indorsed the proposed $5,000,000,000 prosperity loan as an unemployment relief measure, and petitioned Congress to issue the bonds and spend the money on public improvements.

An impressive list of local organizations is now to be found among the indorsers of the plan. And more are scheduled to act in the immediate future.

Every organization interested in the public welfare, whether it be a patriotic, philanthropic, civic, commercial, professional, educational, religious, fraternal or social body, should indorse the proposed bond issue.

The foremost economists and other leaders of thought have declared it is the best plan yet put forward for reviving business and providing jobs for the millions of men now idle.

The Pittsburgh District would stand to receive through the plan such desirable public works as the flood preventive reservoirs on the headwaters of the Allegheny and Monongahela and the Ohio River and Lake Erie canal.

Aside from the possibility that great federal public works would be constructed in the vicinity of Pittsburgh, we would certainly benefit through the demand for Pittsburgh products—steel, coal, glass, aluminum, electric equipment, etc.—that would be created by the construction of great public works in any part of the country.

The $5,000,000,000 loan plan is gaining adherents at Washington. Congress is wavering. It is not inconceivable that if the call from Allegheny County for the adoption of the plan should be sufficiently forceful it would be the deciding factor.

Let every local organization petition Congress then to adopt the plan. Let us make it unanimous!

SUN-TELEGRAPH'S PLATFORM

For Pittsburgh and Western Pennsylvania

1—A better, cleaner, more beautiful city.
2—Rapid Transit.
3—Repeal or modification of "blue law."
4—Establishment of Pittsburgh metropolitan district.
5—Town Hall seating at least 15,000.
6—Voting machines to insure honest elections.
7—Development of river transportation.
8—Development of air transportation.
9—Electrification of railroads.
10—Fair public utility rates.

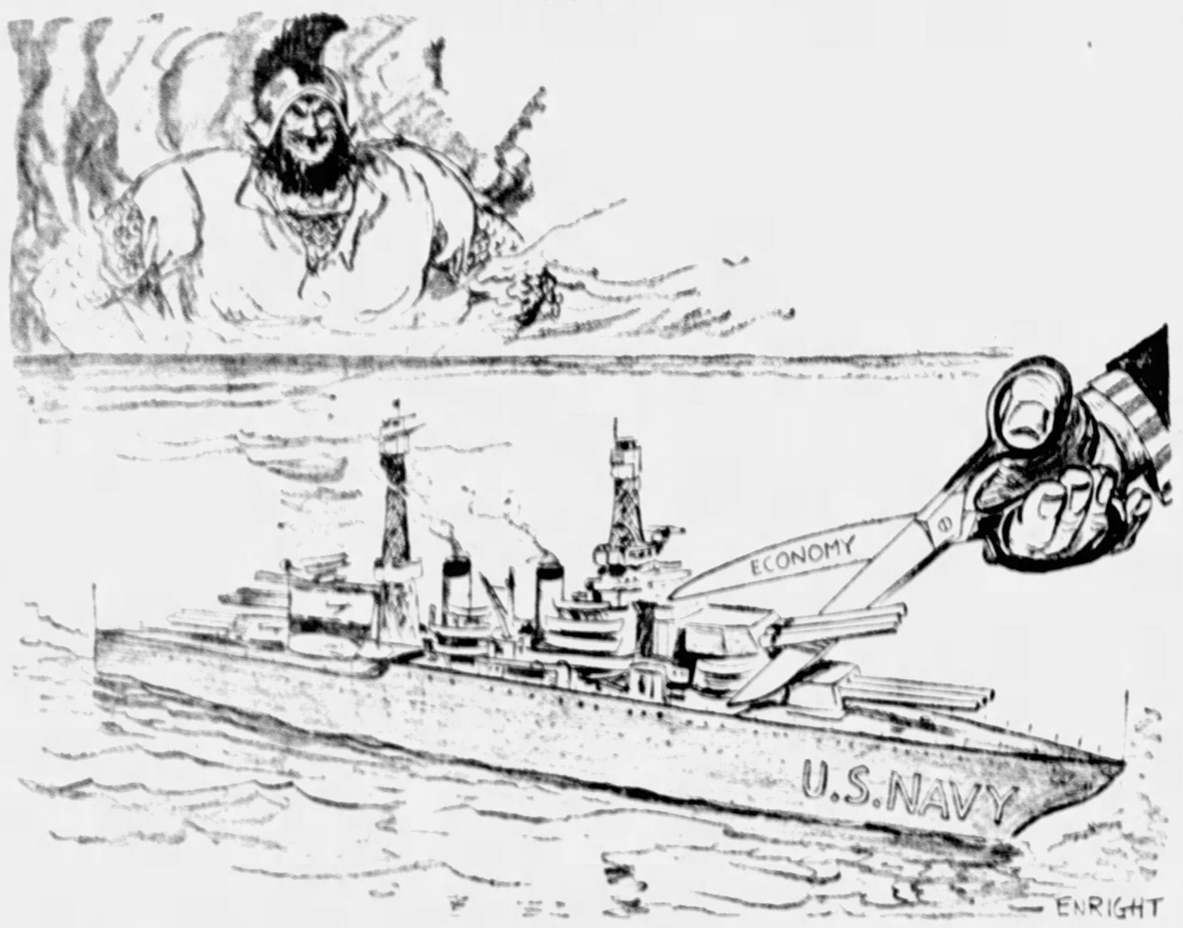
And the God of War Smiles!



The penny-wise-pound foolish attitude of certain Washington pacifists, who in the name of "economy" would render the United States Navy impotent, must cause great glee in the chancelleries overseas.

If these "statesmen" who toy with the national safety (the national security) have their way, the Stars and Stripes would fly over a toy navy, and the nation would be at the mercy of any aggressor who coveted the wealth and resources of this land.

An adequate navy is our surest guarantee of peace and SECURITY.

It must be maintained, in the interest of national safety, on a parity with the strongest, class by class and ship by ship.

To do otherwise is to invite attack and disaster.

But what can be expected of "statesmen" who one day "save" $20,000 a year by abolishing the office of Assistant Secretary of the Navy for Aeronautics, and the next day vote $1,450,000 to complete the new dirigible Macon?

And echo answers "What?"

Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

The Susceptible Age

No man would probably admit that there is a definite marrying age for men. Anywhere from 20 to 90, he feels that he is eligible and dangerous.

* * *

But if a girl has really serious matrimonial intentions and is looking for the quickest returns for the least effort, I commend to her a man between 30 and 35. THAT is the Susceptible Age of Man. Thirty-three, to be specific, is the favorite marrying age—when most men face the Lohengrin music.

* * *

Up to 30, the average unattached man spends most of his evenings gathering primroses while he may and trying to prove that variety is the spice of love. He is wary of matrimony and strong on sales-resistance. He is having a GOOD TIME.

After 35, if by luck or accident he is still single, his impressability has begun to tell and his enthusiasm to cool, and he will soon be practically immune. He has gotten his second wind.

* * *

But in between he is a leaf in the wind. A helpless toy of Fate—and of any attractive woman who happens to set her heart upon him. Poor Butterfly! That is the perilous age, at which he stands with one foot hanging over the brink and the other on a banana-peel.

* * *

It is the age at which almost any man is most attractive and most eligible. When he has "arrived" or is well started in life, and can stop and THINK. It is the hazardous point, at which he begins to lose his taste for dancing and casual petting and whoopee. And to wonder if the synthetic cocktails and synthetic love affairs are worth the headache and the bad taste they leave.

* * *

It is the restive hour in which he begins to feel weary of hotel cooking and the sketchy housekeeping of a bachelor apartment, and to long for regular meals, a well ordered life and a well ordered "place" where he can set up his household goods with a feeling of permanency.

It is the fatal moment when he begins to be fed up with jazz and PLAY and bored with the stupid monotony of one-girl-after-another, one-silly-affair-after-another and one-kiss-after-another. When he begins to think about himself, worry about himself and to wonder why he feels "lonely" in a crowd—and if there isn't something MORE to life. Something that he's MISSING!

* * *

And just at this susceptible moment, he always meets a New Girl—ANY new girl will do—and it's all over but choosing the favors for the ushers!

* * *

Oh, yes, the Marrying Age for a woman is anywhere between 16 and 60, according to whether her bait is beauty, brains or money. But the Marrying Age for the average man is those tender, susceptible, attractive Early Thirties!

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, May 18.—Before Harold Ross attained editorship of The New Yorker he was somewhat a soldier of fortune. In fact he was preparing to idle among the beach combers of Tahiti when a flip of the coin headed him toward the metropolis.

He had tasted life in the raw in Northwest logging camps, with construction crews in Utah, edited small-town dailies, served with the A. E. F. and wound up as a reporter in San Francisco. With all his drawing-room aplomb he was, in formative years, "the hard-boiled mug."

This impression was heightened by an unruly sprout of pompadour and stevedore swagger. His metier, despite his talent for spotting sophistication in literature, has been delving among hell-roaring excitement on the rougher edges of life.

This predilection is responsible for one of the oft told tales in the San Francisco news shops in those relaxing periods after "30." Ross happened to be in a rather disreputable saloon one night when a periodical spasm of reform precipitated a raid.

There was a lineup of customers and a burly cop coming upon Ross and recognizing him as a reporter, gave him a shove and snarled: "Get the hell out of here!" Ross felt aggrieved and demanded a ride in the wagon. Instead he got a well placed kick and the wagon clanged off.

* * *

Outraged, he stormed into the nearest police station, demanding the same treatment others received. The desk sergeant coddled him awhile, tried to josh him out of his peeve and, failing, ordered a couple of roundsmen to give him the bum's rush to the sidewalk.

All night Ross brooded in neighboring bars, and at 9 a. m. appeared in court to join the victims of the raid. After the docket was cleared, he made another plea and again kerplunk on the slot of the car tracks. That gray, shaggy afternoon he tossed a coin—tails, Tahiti; heads, New York. Heads won.

* * *

That glowering old pile, reminiscent of Prison St. Lazare in its studied gloom, and known as Jefferson Market Jail on Sixth avenue, has been supplanted by a two million dollar "House of Detention" in the most extravagant fling of penologists to date. An attendant aptly calls it "The darb of hoose-gows."

* * *

And in a penny peep parlor on Sixth avenue a Peeping Tom reports a lugacious exhibit labeled "Hotch Potchie Dotch or Pash in a Pent House."

* * *

I have finished a literary effusion of Benito Mussolini, written in his 26th year before he entered sobeter realms. Printed in England and banned in Italy, the volume is a highly colored romance, a terrific piling up of magnificent words and a prodigal multiplication of metaphors, entitled "Claudia Particella, or the Cardinal's Love." It is youthful imagination at fever heat, sparking murders, duels and hectic amours. Someone tells me Il Duce recalls it with a sturdy blush.

* * *

I can sympathize with his embarrassed reaction, having indulged similar wincing over an adolescent biography, unearthed in an old trunk. It, too, was turned out in the 20s, fancifully labeled: "The Love Affairs of Millicent Trask." Millicent was a good gal. That is good and tough. But what tickled me most was the number of exclamations "Gadzooks!" That was likely mid-Victorian for "Nerts."

* * *

Speaking of "hot ladies," the newest belle of Harlem is the sepia Blanche Calloway, who like her brother, Cab, conducts a jazz band with acrobatic fervor. On Lenox avenue, she is reputedly best dressed of the "bright skins."

* * *

A ribald lady novelist was on the rack at a Washington Square tea. "But what could you expect, a goose to contribute to literature?" snifled a panner. To which the puckish old-timer, Oliver Herford, mildly offered: "Perhaps a quill!"

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

"I'm not very popular," he writes, unhappily. "I can't just laugh and wisecrack, no matter what happens. People tell me I take things too hard. They say life is just a bowl of cherries, so why be so serious? Do you think they are right?"

No, I don't. But they're in the majority, son. We moderns are that way. We tap-dance through life, wisecrack in the face of destiny. And we think that proves we're clever.

But it doesn't.

IT MERELY PROVES WE'RE FOOLS AND COWARDS.

We aren't outsmarting life with our cynicism and our wisecracks. We're merely running away from life, and two-timing ourselves by doing so.

LIFE ISN'T JUST A BOWL OF CHERRIES.

Life is a noble adventure for brave souls.

Like every adventure it is filled with danger and pain, but it holds also mystery and wonder and beauty beyond words for those who have the courage to seek.

Many do not seek. They desire only to be comfortable and amused. Life for such is literally a bowl of cherries—AND THEY ARE THE WORMS.

But for the real men and women, nothing is "unimportant," every experience is worth while.

But suppose this is all the life we have?" say the wise crackers. "Why give ourselves a headache if we're only here for a few years, then—blotto? Why not have the best possible time while we last?"

If this is "all the life we have," then all the more reason to take this life seriously, to seek those experiences which ennoble and dignify human life, rather than those trivial amusements which man might share with any monkey.

No God? Then all the more reason for man himself to be a god—to treat himself as a god.

And as for having "the best time possible," no one can have that who tries to duck life, or to laugh it off.

The tired mother drudging through her round of household chores, denying her own youth that her children may grow into a happier maturity, is actually having "a better time" than the flippant flapper with her cynical egoism, who is still just a sweet young thing at 40.

That mother had dared to live. She has dared to give life and has lost her life that others may live. Because of that she has found the fine and fundamental things. Weary and shabby and obscure as she is, she has known a pride that a lesser woman can never know—a hope and a joy and content which the wisecracker play-girl can never gain.

Joan walking to the stake, Socrates drinking his hemlock, Christ dying on the cross, and the untold millions who dared to risk the fullness of life, dared to laugh at the futility of death — they alone were the wise men.

"Yes, it sounds wonderful to read about them, but you get an awful razz if you try to live that way," says some youngster, wistfully. "You can't possibly be popular if you take things seriously."

No, you can't be popular, and you probably will get the razz, just as they did.

But there are greater things than popularity, my dear — more rare and honorable things. Human companionship is a good thing, child, BUT LIFE IS A GREATER THING IF YOU HAVE THE COURAGE TO FACE IT AND TAKE IT!

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

How about making definite plans for the next day, during the evening?

Do you drift from one day to the other with your work?

No definite plan laid out in advance—just a routine machine, is that you?

No thought given to improvement in your production, means going backward.

Or are you one of those employes who is "not paid to think."

Have you carried this spirit so long that you find sustained thought almost impossible on any subject?

Even in the games you play, you realize that you might be a better player, if you were willing to concentrate as do the others who are more expert.

But you are unwilling to exert control over your mind enough to give full attention to what you are doing.

You do not like to think because it entails effort and so you just jog along through life, from one day to another, almost aimlessly.

Thus you have wasted what might have been to you a faithful servant.

Your mind would serve you more and more with the years.

It is only disuse that slows up and dulls the mind.

The more you make your brain work the more capable it is of working.

Cultivate the greatest power you have on earth, your mind.

The Way Out

No. 7—Establish Economic Council

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER

PROSPERITY broke down because of the accumulated excesses resulting from anarchy in business.

Instead of forbidding by law rational co-operation among competitors, the government should modernize the anti-trust laws.

Instead of exalting unco-ordinated particularism in business and finance, the public should encourage the creation of new social instruments for industrial planning and economic co-ordination.

Whether an economic council should have advisory or compulsory authority is perhaps debatable, but the need for such an agency for perceiving and analysing business problems as a whole has become paramount.

Business needs an integrating force, which will act as its lookout. In place of misdirected efforts, based on fears, ignorance, and incomplete data, business needs a regular flow of prompt, comprehensive and reliable information.

Modern economic society has become too complicated to continue to gamble on future trends in accordance with the rules of the jungle incidental to primitive competition.

The welfare of millions depends on the maintenance of a delicate economic equilibrium, which experience has shown can readily be upset by excesses in various directions.

If a single corporation left as much to mere chance as business in general does, it would soon be in the sheriff's hands.

The next step in social control must be a technique for co-ordinating the activities and the aims of numerous competing business enterprises.

Chambers of commerce and trade associations can play a useful part in contributing to the success of the new machinery.

AT EVERY turn, the observer today sees the dismal consequences which inevitably flow from a chaotic, unplanned economy.

The hit or miss economic system has resulted in widespread malnutrition amidst plenty.

The fact that 8,000,000 persons are today trudging the streets without jobs and without hope is intolerable, especially since important work, such as slum removal, public works, and replacement of obsolete private goods, needs to be done.

It is intolerable for vast numbers of human beings to be in want when the granaries of the world are glutted.

In order to get business and agriculture out of the present snarl and to prevent a recurrence, it would be eminently desirable forthwith to create an economic general staff in the United States, which would undertake to give intelligent leadership to business.

The time has passed for a reaction to the earlier method of exploitation, misrepresentation, and excessive speculation, which we used to call prosperity. The challenge is at hand to stabilize good times on a rational, scientific basis.

When this is accomplished, the public will benefit from the extraordinary productivity of modern industrial technique. A genuine economic renaissance, in which the aim will be to abolish poverty, will be at hand.

Eight other countries have recognized the need for such economic steering committees.

Instead of wistfully hoping for business recovery, it would be the part of wisdom to organize for it.

The immediate need is the creation of what in substance would resemble a PEACETIME WAR INDUSTRIES BOARD, which would co-ordinate the enormous productive and distributive agencies of the country, and create a medium for large scale industrial planning and economic co-ordination.

Such a move would constitute an effective vote against the prevailing chaotic state of trade.

GOING HIGHBROW

By Winifred Black

Maud is having a grand time being a cynic.

Dear Maud! She was very religious when she went to boarding school, and then she became an agnostic.

After that she saw the light, and followed the teachings of Buddha.

From that she became a Fire Worshiper, and then she found her delight in the intriguing doctrine of the transmigration of souls.

She knew for quite a while that she used to be a Priestess of Isis, and she intended to come back next time as a great aviatrix.

Just now she's a cynic. Sometimes she calls it an intellectual, or maybe merely a modern.

Maud's brother Henry used to worry a good deal about Maud, especially when she took to batik smocks, and cigaret holders shaped like little pipes. However, he was quite hardened to that by the time she took to pajamas for reception wear, although he never quite liked her "platonic affairs" with young gentlemen who wore their hair very long and frequently forgot not only to shave, but also the use of the common tooth brush of commerce.

But he's all over worrying about Maud, is Brother Henry. Now he just smiles indulgently and changes the subject when anyone asks him about Maud's latest fad.

"Oh, this intelligentsia thing; is that it?" says John. "Nothing terrible about that. I've figured 'em all out—the intelligentsias, and the cynics, and the ultra-moderns. They're just highbrow Smart Alecks; that's all.

"You remember the Smart Aleck, don't you—the fellow who sat in front of you at school, way back yonder, when you wore a four-in-hand tie for best, and your father wore spring-bottom pants and had a peach pit cut into a basket for a watch charm?

"The Smart Aleck knew everything. You never could fool him; no sirree, bobtail!" That's what he always said.

"He wasn't a bit surprised when the magician took the rabbit out of old Deacon Cushing's best straw hat. He knew exactly how the magician did it. He couldn't do it himself, but he knew. Oh, I'll say he knew!

"And when the Lost Legion was lost, did he worry about them? Tut, tut! He just gave that knowing grin of his and winked the other eye, and you were ashamed to take the Lost Legion seriously after that.

"He always said Lincoln was just a good grand-stander; and as for Washington, he certainly knew how to play the part.

"He was a regular Wise Guy; the old Smart Aleck was.

"Why it was the Smart Aleck that started the wise-crack—he and the Wise Guy. And now they've gone highbrow, that's all."

I'm glad Maud's Brother Henry told me all these things. It sort of relieves my mind about the intelligentsia, and the ultra-moderns, and the wise guys, don't you know?
